MOLDING

2005! Yes, we are the graduating class of 2005! Proud and successful, the seniors don't, "fit the mold, they break it!"

As we started the year in 2004, every senior was anxious to undergo the last year of their high school careers. Since kindergarten we've molded ourselves into jocks, rebels, brains, weirdos, or preppies. Although each person contains one of these attributes, we still come together as one whole group of students. We may not be the same person we were in 5th grade, but that's what is great about being in school and growing up with your friends. Each senior was allowed the education, the friendships, and the ability to grow into what kind of person you wanted to become. If you wanted to be the smartest kid or the toughest athlete, our class was willing to back anybody up and support them all the way. Whether you just joined our class this last year, or you were born here, we all have our friends and teachers who we will never forget at Salida High. We may break the molds that surround our lives, but we hold and cherish the bonds we've created.

As we continue life after high school and decide what we want for our future, we will always remember: We are the graduating class of 2005 from Salida High School, and we're still growing!

Breaking it Down

By Madison Cassels

Students everywhere have incredibly busy lifestyles. Salida High School is no different. Students are constantly running around like chickens with their heads cut off. For example, it wouldn't be atypical for a student to have a STUCO meeting at 7:50 am, a Key Club meeting at lunch, and practice after school. With as many options as Salida can offer in the way of extracurricular activities, why wouldn't a student get involved? We have a wide array of clubs, sports, and other organizations. However, some students choose not to become involved. Some students choose to expand their social lives and merely spend time with friends. Others choose to get part time jobs in order to pay for cars, gas, food, etc. In addition to being paid, a job instills responsibility into the student, preparing them for the 'real world'. Whatever the choices, Salida High students maintain busy lifestyles and social lives.

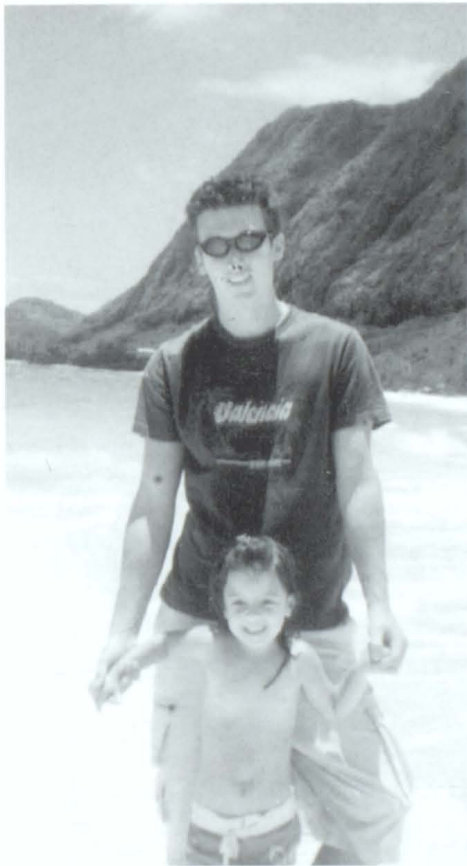

Summer Sun

By Christi Erbsen

Each year we all go through the same mind-boggling anxiety right around springtime. Every person wandering through the halls during the last month of school has at least one thing on their mind: summer! As the last bell rings, we all run outside and throw our papers up in the air like on "Grease" (Yeah, I wish). We leave each other for vacations or jobs. Some people go away for just a few days, while others leave for college. In Salida, summer fun can be summed up in just a few things: "F" Street, trips to Springs or Denver, the river, reruns of Jerry Springer, and "The Price is Right". Some folks went to North Carolina on a mission trip, while others stayed at home to work non-stop. No matter who did what, summer has always held special memories. As the days of August linger on, hopes and fears start building up inside each of us. We think of new classes, new kids in school, and reuniting with old friends that we haven't seen all summer. Even if our break was totally awesome, we are all forced to trade in swimsuits for notebooks and sleeping in for 6 am wake-up calls, but we only complain on the outside.

Breaking out the Leadership

By Stephanie Baker

After last spring's elections Meghan Orrill became student body president, and Patrick Hurley became her vice president. At the first meeting for the 2004-2005 Student Council, Laura Gross was elected as student body secretary, and Emily Blakley was elected student body historian. The student council had its members performing a few new services this year. STUCO scrubbed and painted the boys' and girls' locker rooms in the field house, had canned food drives to help the grainery, gave 1/2 of the Winterfest proceeds to tsunami relief funds, and a ton of work around the campus that often goes unnoticed by the student body. Student Body President Meghan Orrill stated, "I am excited about all of our accomplishments this year. I feel that Student Council stepped up to the plate and got things done." Both Winterfest and Homecoming went extremely well this year. The dance tickets went up to $4.00 for singles and $6.00 for couples. Even though the price went up, the dances had a great turn out.

Break a Leg

By Matt Nance

“It has been an honor to represent Drama as the President this year,” said Andrew Lasher, Drama club President. Several high class plays were presented this year by the Drama club. The plays acted out by these individuals included, “How Does a Thing Like That Get Started”, “Strawberry Jam”, “Cradle Camp”, and “Atlanta”. “Working on all the plays was a lot of fun,” said Lasher, “But I would have to say the hick play (“How Does a Thing...”) was the best.”

Drama brought home several individual awards this year including, Best Actor - Aaron Dobson, and Honorable Mention for Best Actress - Laura Wancura. They also won several group gold medals for Characterization, Tempo, and Rhythm. This dynamic acting group bagged several honorable mentions for Emotion and Volume. With such great actors, it's no surprise that they're molding the characters for the future actors of Salida.

"Only Fools Rush In"

Salida High expressed their spirit by decorating, yelling, and breaking it down.

Salida High School started the year off right, Breaking it down! Our Homecoming Week was October 12-16th. We donned our crazy ensembles throughout Spirit Week: River Rafter, Twin, Super Hero, and Purple and White days. As usual the seniors had to spice up the final day of Spirit Week by sporting togas. The Senior class nominated the Homecoming candidates a week in advance. Our queen candidates were Heather Granzella, Elli Bishop, Laura Gross, and Meghan Orrill. At the end of the week, in our usual pep assembly, Salida High School crowned Meghan Orrill Homecoming Queen. The theme of the parade floats was "Eras." The sophomore class won the float competition for the first time in over ten years. The Spartan football team played the Summit Tigers and defeated them. The culmination of our week ended in what else, but dancing! The Homecoming dance theme brought Salida High a little closer to Elvis with "Only Fools Rush In." Student Council invested in a new DJ, so we could truly break it down and dance the night away. Senior Brian Smith said, "It was the bomb! Homecoming was new, creative, and interesting. I couldn't have asked for a better final Homecoming dance."

Rendezvous

á

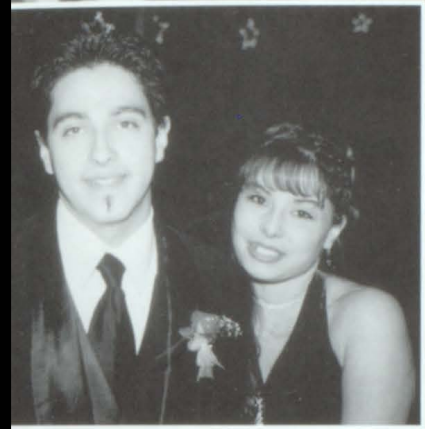

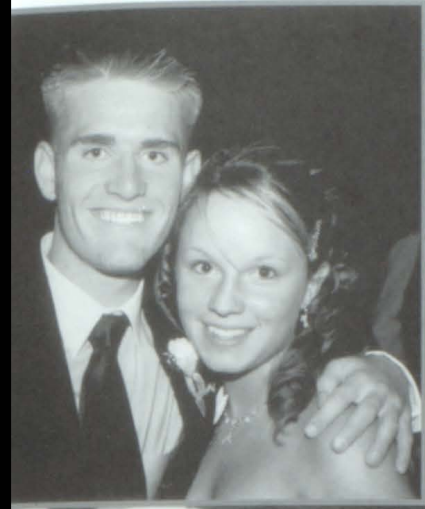

By Emily Blakeley & Matt Kroschel

The 2005 Junior/ Senior Prom was themed Rendezvous a Paris, basically a Night in Paris. Students danced the night away in the shadow of a large cardboard Eiffel Tower. The hall leading to the backdrop for pictures allowed students to take a stroll in the park along a cobble stone walkway. The Juniors had a difficult task, but they were able to complete it by decorating Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. In addition, those who met the requirements of fundraising decorated all day Friday. While decorating Junior Jesse Snyder said, "Prom is going to be hip and hop!" Senior Crissa Nachtrieb agreed and said, "It was very well done, and it had a fun theme." Overall the Juniors pulled together a great prom for the seniors, and it upheld the stylish name of Paris.

Winterfest Dance

Breaking Through The Winterfest Tradition

By Emma Nay

The Salida Spartans celebrated Winterfest the week of January 18-22. Spirit week was full of fun, which included pajama day, 80's day, Hawaiian day, and purple and white day. On Friday, the beautiful queen candidates and their escorts were presented to the crowd. Aimee Davis was crowned the 2005 Winterfest Queen. Her attendants were Crissa Nachtrieb, Madison Cassels, and Sarah McLearn. Once the queen was crowned, the cheerleaders began the class competition cheer which the sophomores won. The senior class finished the assembly with true Spartan Spirit as they broke out the silly string on the juniors.

Friday night, the basketball teams competed against the TCA Titans. The girls' team was victorious, but the boys lost their battle. The dance held on Saturday night and themed a "Beautiful Soul". What a beautiful night it was.

"Beautiful Soul"

ing On Friday May 27th, it was "hats off" to this year's seniors, the class of 2005. Principal Robert Carrick presented the diplomas to the hard-working seniors. This year's graduating class was significantly larger than years past, with about 92 seniors graduating.

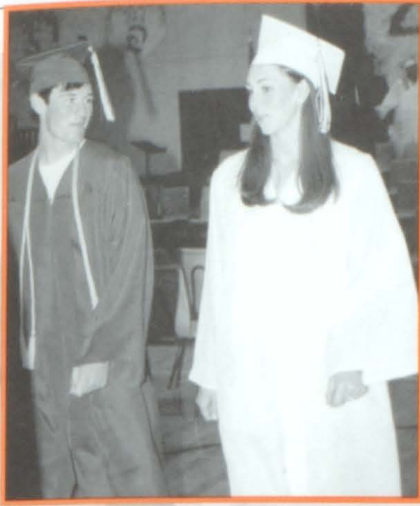

Seniors were pleased when the ceremony took place, because they were tired of all the graduation practices. For two of the practices, students had to get out of bed early. Most didn't complain, because practices were fun. Many seniors enjoyed seeing Mr. Carrick smile as much as he did. He even said, "the seniors are trying to ruin my image."

During graduation, some seniors shed tears, especially during the slide show. Although the night was a time of sadness, it was definitely filled with joy. There is no doubt that the class will branch in many different ways, and become successful. The ceremony helped remind seniors of their graduation quote, "Now that they better know who they are, it's time to tell the world."

Molding Personalities

By Madison Cassels and Sarah McLearn

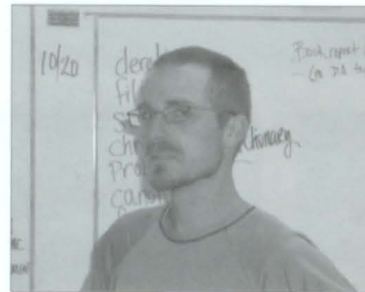

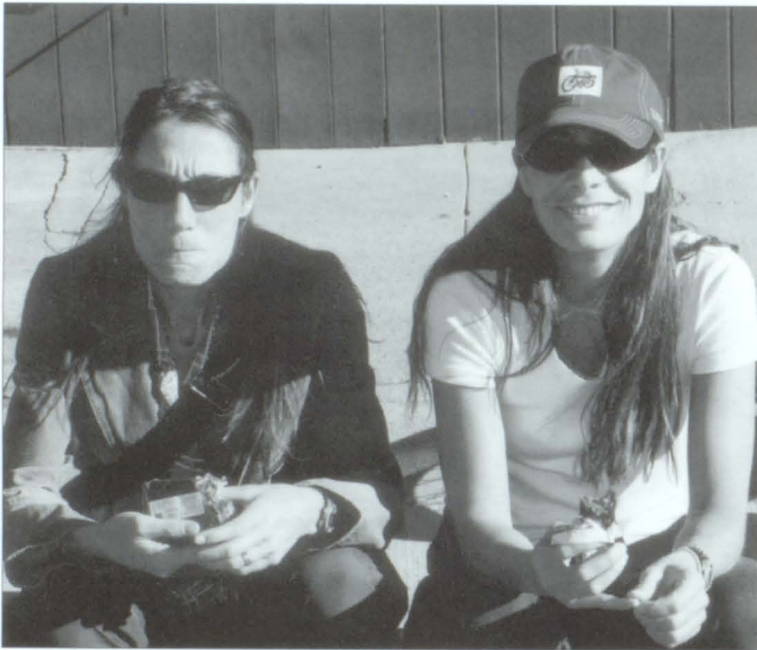

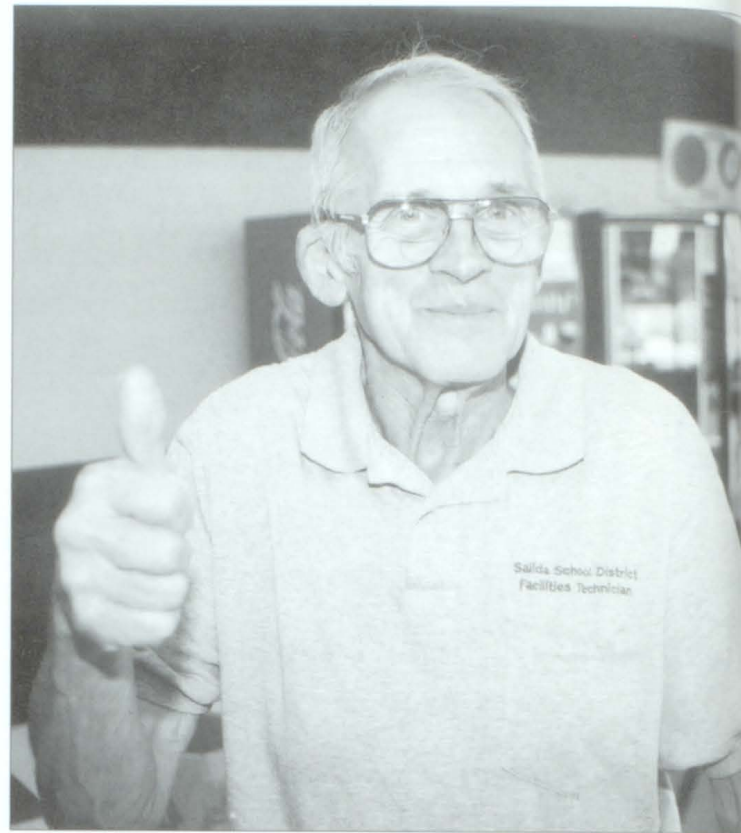

M Salida High School students fit into a wide variety of molds. The many groups include the nerds, jocks, punkers, motorheads, rednecks, and the list goes on. You name it and Salida High has it, or a version of it. However, most people do not fit completely into one particular mold. Instead, some students can be in two different groups at the same time. Students here are, for the most part, friendly and choose to associate with a variety of people with different beliefs, ideas, and backgrounds. Whatever a student may choose to do at SHS, they feel a sense of unity among their peers. Yet, as students come into high school, and seniors leave into the real world, new and different lessons carry each one individually, through their lives.

Trying to Mold the Future

By Seth Myers and Josh Kunkel

Every year the SHS faculty has a diverse staff of teachers. The 2004/2005 school year is no exception. SHS acquired five new teachers who teach a broad spectrum of classes. Among the new teachers are Mr. Delcavo (Business), Miss Reidburn (Math), Miss Frazee (Foreign Language), Mr. Bowerly (Band), and Mrs. Smith (Foreign Language). Miss Reidburn, the new math teacher was asked how her first year is going at SHS she said, "This year is going swell!" Mr. Delcavo a first year teacher, is teaching Business Management and Accounting. His classroom is decorated with posters and drawings from students cooperating in groups and creatively designing their own portraits. Mr. Delcavo says, "The paintings help a first year teacher realize that students can behave and have fun at the same time!"

SPILLING INTO The Mold

By: Matt Nance

We break it! The new freshmen class has broken into the high school. High school has taken a little getting used to, but everyone has gotten used to our new faces. We've all matured-- well at least some of us have. High school has lived up to its standards of being some of the best four years of our lives. Since our kindergarten graduation, we've gotten a few new faces and taken them under our wings. The freshmen class isn't like any other class you have, or will ever see. We break the standards of every class before us; we don't have segregated groups. Everyone is a friend with everyone. The class of 2008 is proud to say, "We break it!"

BREAKING All the Rules

The class of 2007 are the sophomores of Salida High. Our class has always broken the mold from day one in high school. We excel in academics, we dominate in athletics, and we set the standards for extracurricular activities. As a class we will continue to be leaders. "This year the sophomore class has really come together." "We have proven this by winning the SHS Homecoming float competition," stated Ashley Shovald. In our final two years at Salida High School, expect to see many great things, new records, and continued domination in all aspects!

BREAKING The Habit

By Paula Ortiz and Christer Sonheim

The class of 2006 has only one more year to go! After a year of fundraising, placement tests, and yes we're even beginning to look at colleges.

Junior Taylor Boone said, "It has been an overwhelming but beneficial experience" which in fact it has, agreed Bailee Bragassa "this year has defiantly been the best year we've had so far."

Prom was a big part of class participation this year. The class decided to sell Little Caesars Pizza and Cookie Kits. These items were a huge hit throughout the community. Class President Cat Paitzel said "we hadn't done as well as we hoped, but we managed." We sure did, this prom is really going to be rocking.

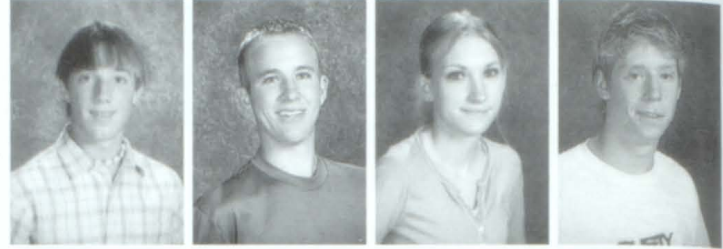

This year has been an important one academically. Along with weighted classes, ACT's and Chemistry. It has been a long hard journey, but the junior class broke out of it and made the best memories ever. We have grown and moved towards our goals and next year we will be accomplishing them. We will continue to keep on BREAKING IT DOWN!

Senior Advi

By Emma Nay & Seth Myers

Throughout its history, Salida High School has been known to try new things. This year Salida High is trying to adopt an advisory hour. Advisory hour is a twenty-five minute period on Wednesdays, that is devoted to giving students time to do school work and improve student teacher relations, while the senior classes' advisory hour allows seniors to prepare for college.

When asked about the newly implemented advisory hour, Mr. Stenzel said, "It's fantastic! Advisory hour is a great opportunity for students and teachers, I'm glad it's here. I also believe we can expand it into something even better," Mr. Carrick said, "Advisory hour it has gone very well, and we expect it to get better for spring semester. It has been a valuable addition to our curriculum, and it was recognized as such by the accreditation committee."

Seniors Break It Down

As the theme of the yearbook suggests, the senior class of 2005 refuses to conform to any given mold... WE BREAK IT! This amazing class of seniors has always been outspoken no matter what the issue seems to be. From our kindergarten graduation, all the way to our high school graduation, we have become a truly unique and elite group of individuals. We are busting into an unfamiliar world to begin the next chapter in our lives. A few things that we can carry with us through life, besides knowledge and wisdom, are the memories we had at Salida High. Together we have laughed, cried on each other's shoulders, shared embarrassing moments, and triumphed in the face of adversity. From eating lunch at Nane's to couch rodeos, and from cheering at football games to sporting togas, we have all built lasting friendships, and left even longer lasting impressions at Salida High. As we step into the unknown, we can keep the memories close to our hearts and look back at the good 'ol days. The thing that will always be kept in mind is that the senior class of 2005 doesn't fit the mold... WE BREAK IT!

Cassandra, our little valentine. How fast the years have gone. Live for the moment, think with your head, but listen to your heart. We all know you're going to be a great success at whatever you do!
Love Mom, Dad, & Shane

Jessica,
The kid who never quit had become the young woman who is a force to be reckoned with. Looking forward to more adventures! Love from us all!

Our Precious Emily- We knew the day you were born you were special. You have become such a unique and exceptionally determined young lady. We're so proud of your accomplishments and loving spirit. We love you baby girl! Mom & Dad

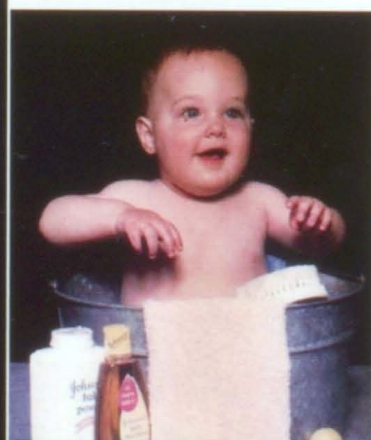

Shaya Brandon

Beau,
Thanks for the miles and the smiles. You have been a joy from the beginning. Shine in your future.
Love,
Your mom and dad

I don't care who you are: you're a sinner! If you have a problem with that, take it up with my Father: the only way to get to him is through his son.
Nate

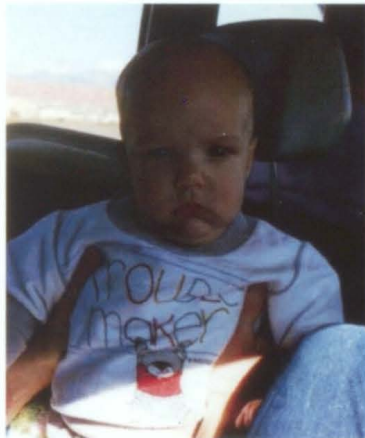

Hawk-
Congratulations on all your accomplishments! Life has so much more to offer you- Go for it, Bud!
Love always

Cally Cripps

Ryan, Congratulations!
We are so proud of you! You have met many challenges along the way and you have become a stronger person because of them. May God richly bless you in your future endeavors. Love, Mom, Dad, & Nicole

Mary Ferraro

Aruna, Wow you are so grown up now. It has been so great watching you grow up and now you have become such a wonderful young lady. Strive in every thing you do. We love you so much. Love, Mom & Dad

Aimee Congratulations!
You're future is at hand so aim high. They say there is no limit to the sky. You will do well, we raised you that way. We wish you all the best each and every day. Love always, Mam & Dad

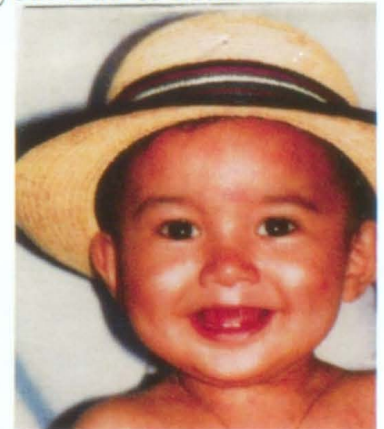

Dearest Madison, What a bright star you are! The light you radiate is the perfect combination of intelligence, humor, and beauty. Believe in yourself as we do, now and always, and continued success is assured. We give you our unconditional love and support, and our wish for your life to be filled with happiness. Love Always Mom, Martin and Corinne

Christi, How can a few words describe what a wonderful person you have become; a beautiful woman both inside and out. We love you and pray that the lord keep you in his love forever. We love you! Dad & Mom

Congrats! Jorge I am very proud of you, let God bless you in all of your steps. Mom & Dad

Cassie-
Big brown eyes, cute little figure. Stand back world, 'cause she's gotten bigger.' Follow your dreams & seek your desires. When you find what you want for your very own...just lick it. Congratulations Sissy! All our love, Mommy, Danny, & Lukas

Heather, From the beginning you have amazed us. From crayons to web designs, from toys to cell phones, from trampoline flips to tumbling on the basketball court and soccer field, from the backyard to Spain and Italy, and from a busybody to a role model and big sister, you fill our lives with excitement, pride, and love and still we know you have only just begun. All our love and support always: Dad, Mom, Dakota, and Dillon

"L" We are blessed that God has allowed us to parent you for the last 18 years. You have been a source of great pleasure and joy. We love you and we are so proud of you. As you begin the next stage of your journey, allow God to direct you. "In all your ways acknowledge Him and He will make your path straight." Love Always Dad & Mom

Patrick, Let the true spirit of who you are shine through in all you do. Let your hopes and dreams always guide you in the direction you believe in. Reach out to those who need your gentle spirit and caring ways. And never forget how very special you are. We love you Mom, Dad, Jeff, and Kevin

Kayla: We are proud of your effort and your success, which is the beginning of the dreams we have for you. We will always be there for you, believe in you, pray God's best for you and love you with all of our hearts. Love, Mom, Dad & Jenna

Chelsea Jo Klossner- We are so proud of you and all that you have accomplished. We know your hard work will take you a long way in life. Keep that beautiful smile and happiness in your heart. We love you so much! Mom & Dad

Kyle Kuester

Ki, What a wonderful young woman you've grown into. Watching you grow up has been the greatest gift I've ever recieved. Always be that happy, caring person that you are today. You'll always be Daddy's Little Girl. Love you, Dad

Rossi Luchetta

Boone, Your great smile, generous loving heart, willing spirit and leadership abilities have always been a joy to your family and friends and are among your greatest assets. Let God continue to lead you in a successful happy life, always giving Him glory for the great things you are going to accomplish. We are so proud of you and love you very much. Mom, Dad, Cabell, and Rebecca

Sarah, You have been such a blessing to us! Thanks for being such a great child and for making our role as your parents such a delight. You will forever be in our hearts. Keep Smilin'! We love you and we are so proud of all your accomplishments. God bless you always. Love, Mom & Dad

WHAT'S HOT FOR 2005?

What was hot for the 2004-2005 year? Starting the new year, fashions seemed to take over our school. Many girls turned their belts sideways, wore big earrings, side hair bangs, and frilly skirts, while the guys changed their styles of shirts. Guys sported the collared shirts with stripes, maverick aviators, and of course, pink shirts. Girls showed off their fashion by carrying mini purses around and everyone loved the 80's converse shoes, mini Ipod's, and coffee mugs.

Another obvious and extremely huge fashion was Croc shoes. People either loved them or hated them and nobody was in between, but Salida High loved crocs, and it seemed as though everyone just went and bought them overnight. With the wide array of colors and the air holes, who couldn't love them? On a more serious note, many of the students at Salida High wore Lance Armstrong wristbands, proudly showing their support for Cancer, Cystic Fibrosis, and organizations donating to various causes.

Next year, some of the fashions might still be popular, but in ten years, we'll all be laughing about what we wore in high school.

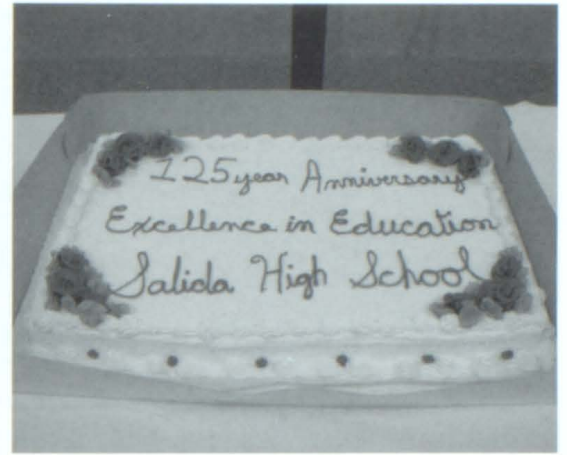

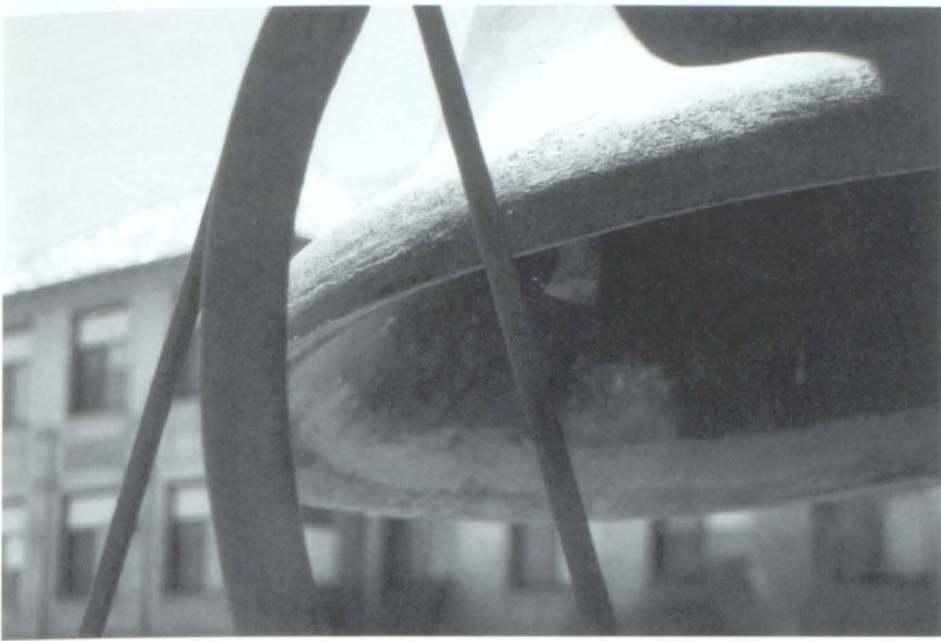

Breaking the Time Space Continuum

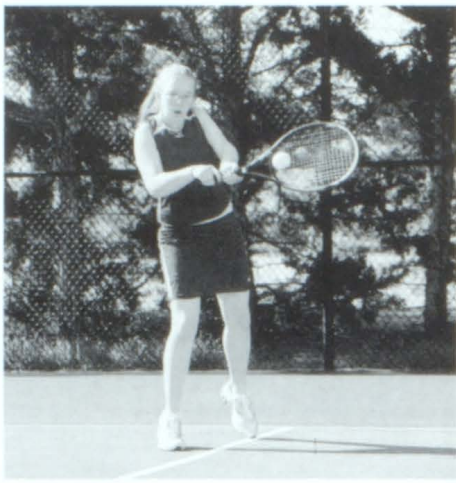

“In researching the last 125 years of the existence of Salida High School, I’ve become very proud to be a part of such an ongoing level of excellence,” commented SHS counselor Chuck Stenzel. This school year marks the 125th Anniversary of Salida High School.

To commemorate this special occasion, each student received a purple heart pin with a 125th Year Anniversary design presented upon it. In addition to this, decor for the Homecoming floats were centered around past eras in Salida High School. Spartan pride has come to an all time high while students and staff eagerly anticipate the next 125 years of Salida High School.

Just Break It

By Madison Cassels and Josh Kunkel

Sports are an integral part of a student's lifestyle in Salida High. Student's can choose sports from any one or all of the seasons: fall, winter, and spring. Salida is lucky to have such an extraordinary group of athletes, which was proven by the boys' soccer team winning the 2004 Colorado State Championship 3A. The Boys Basketball team hosted Regionals at home, finishing there season with an 18-6 record. Cross Country qualified six athletes for the state meet, continuing a tradition of excellence. Not all people are athletes, however. Whoever chooses not to participate in sports will usually support the athletes by attending games or joining pep band. This year has been a benchmark for Salida athletics. Participation in all sports have increased, fan attendance is increasing, and community support is abundant in the programs. With the athletes motivation, and support of the community, there's no doubt that we can break the mold and become contenders.

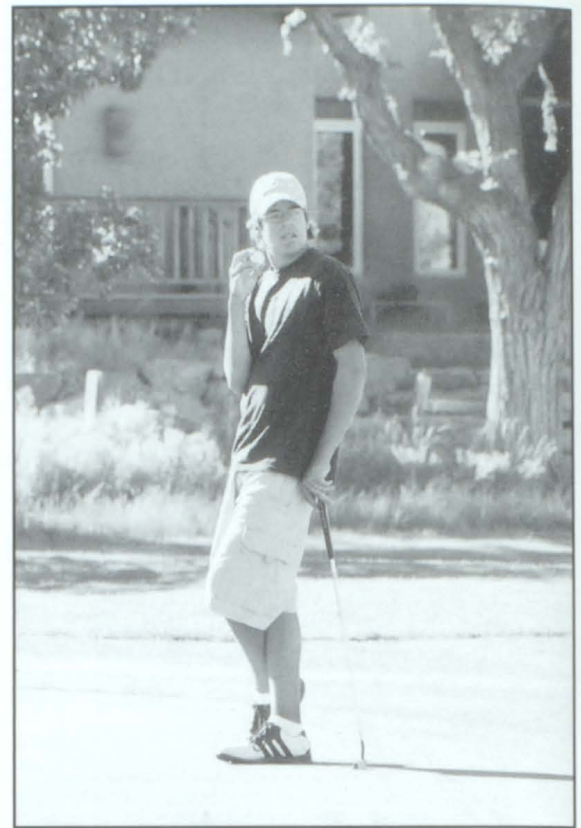

Busting Out The Nine Iron

With only two seniors and no juniors, Salida Boys' Golf had a pretty strong team. In the intensity of the 2004 Gold Season, the guys had to miss a lot of school, but they didn't break. The team wrapped up the season by the end of Septneber, with a total of about twenty matches for JV and Varsity. The team was said to have an "eventful" year. With such a young team, the boys had four stae qualifiers; Richie Cahill, Kevind Hurley, Andrew Lasher, and Jake Johnson. The individual wins and lessons these boys learned were tremendous.

Jake Johnson, the one of the two seniors on the team, thought it was a great year. "One way to describe this year's golf season was that it was impressivve and we had a lot of team unity. I believe that this was one of the best years of golf for myself and the team. I wish I had at least one more season with this great team, I'll miss all of them, Mr. Spence, and Salida High School. Just remember, drive for show, putt for dough." Even though next year will start off with a young team, they will show the leadership needed and hopefully pull the team into better rankings.

Breaking The Huddle

We must protect this HOUSE!
-Robert Wikoff

By: Matt Kroschel

After being plagued with injuries, the Spartan grinders managed to come to the end of the season with a record of 4-5. "This year was a turn around season for us," said head coach Doug Cogan. Nicole Garcia seems to think the word is out: Spartan football is back! She said, "From full stands to state media coverage, the community and the state are once again putting a lot of interest into Spartan football." Although the season was not as good as some people would have liked. Senior Kyle Kuester said, "This was the best season in four years of football for me. That last home game was really hard; it was the last game in my high school career." Salida Spartan football has broken through in many ways this year. The team has really grown together, and become a close knit group of guys. Be on the look out next year, because Spartan football is going to make big breaks, even bigger than this year.

Breaking Through

The Rough Times

"We had some disappointing losses, but overall, we were competitive against the teams at our level," commented Head Varsity Coach Lynn Larson.

The Lady Spartans completed their 2004 volleyball season with a 10-10 record. Although they were defeated by Buena Vista twice, the girls managed to BREAK through five matches in the first game. The Lady Spartans' biggest accomplishment was defeating teams that they were unable to overcome last year, including Trinidad, La Junta and Monte Vista.

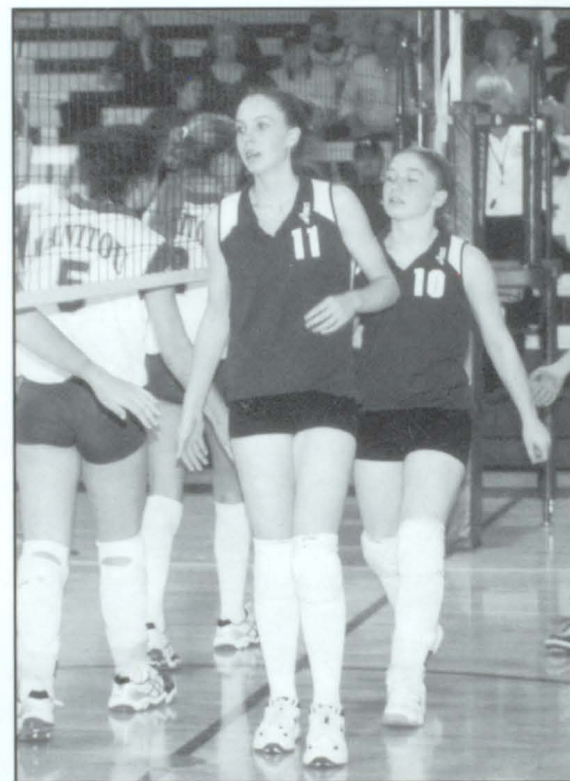

Senior Aimee Davis stated: "This year we were more of a team compared to last year. We didn't really accomplish all of the goals we wanted to, especially against B.V. We lost both times."

"We really came together and played as a team this year," agreed Senior Cassie Baldauf. "I'm sad that it's over, but I'm glad that I was able to play with so many talented people. We had a lot of fun this year, and I'm happy to have been a part of it."

STATE CHAMPS!

By: Steph Baker
& Paula Ortiz

The boys soccer team not only broke into the state play-offs, they won the 3A State Championship! "We are more of a team and closer this year. We have more players and a strong desire to take state," stated senior captain Pat Hurley at the beginning of the season. After losing in the semi-finals last year, the desire to win state was even greater for the soccer team. Losing three starters from last year, the team took a big step and filled in the gaps with great talent. All of the boys did a great job, performing when needed. Once again they were league champs and ready to take on the state play offs. All of their state games were won by one goal. In the finals we soared above the Faith Christian Eagles, two time defending champions, 1-0. The goal came from Junior Aaron Hanes early in the second half. "This goal made my heart stop, it was unbelievable," stated Aaron Hanes, state champion. This year the boys' soccer team not only broke all expectations, but shattered them. We will continue to see great things from this program.

The girls team dominated at several meets. The boys team did really well too.

By: Emily Blakeley and Bridgette Aichele

The cross country season was great this year. The team consisted of eight girls, five boys, two managers, one assistant coach, and the infamous coach Buta (Butacan). The girls team dominated at several meets taking first as a team including league where they were league champions. The boys did really well too, improving at every meet. Hawk Caldwell had this to say, "The season was fun while it lasted. This was my best season by far."

At regionals Emily Blakeley, Krista Quintana, and Heather Granzella qualified individually for State, but also placed 3rd as a team which allowed Kelsey Young and Courtney Sovia to go to State as well. From the boys team, Hawk Caldwell qualified for State as an individual, but, unfortunately, the team was a few points short of making it. At State everyone did the best they could, and it was a great way to end the season.

Shattering the GLASS

Led by ten seniors this year, the boys' varsity basketball team had a breakthrough season. The team fell one win shy of making an appearance in the "great eight" at CSU's Moby Arena.

Coach DeHoff was very pleased with the amount of talent on the team, admitting it was the most he's had since he took over the job. There was a tremendous amount of improvement compared to years' past, ending the season with an impressive 18-6 record and a second place finish in league. The team also earned the second place plaque at the district tournament, losing in a nail-biter to arch rival, Buena Vista, by only four points.

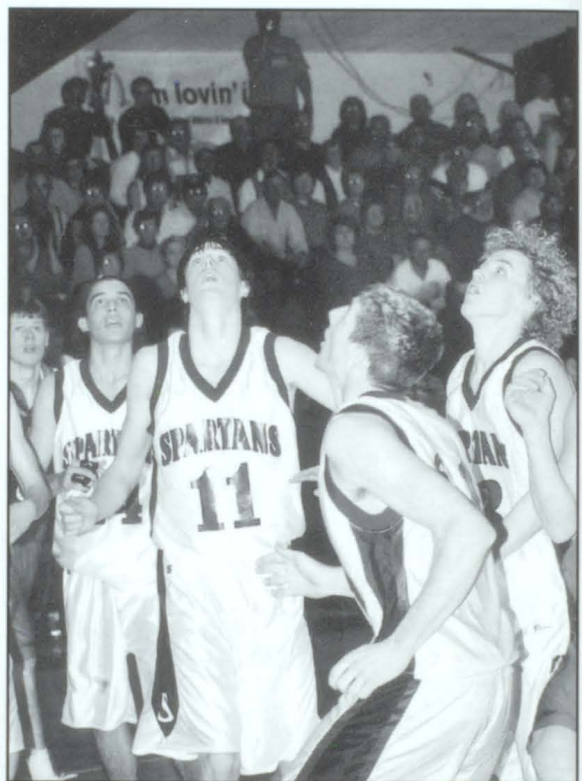

Unfortunately, the "dream season" ended with a 49-33 loss to Denver Lutheran in the "sweet sixteen" game. It was neck and neck midway through the second quarter, but the team was found by eight at the half. After a rally late in the fourth, the Spartans trailed themselves trailing by only five, but couldn't overcome the deficit.

After the game in the locker room, the boys were very emotional, with Coach DeHoff even shedding a few tears. With some time, they let it go and enjoyed memories of their great season. Hopefully they paved the way for the future teams to continue to "shatter the glass."

Even though the numbers were low, the Salida girls' basketball team did very well. Finishing 4th in the league, the girls had a very productive season. "The season went well, I am proud of the girls for making it so far," stated senior Heather Granzella. After beating La Junta to make it into the state tournament, the girls went further than anyone expected. Great job girls!

Being part of the tri-peaks league, the girls have played some of the toughest teams in the state and have performed well. Only losing three seniors, next year's team will continue to do well in the tri-peaks league. As a big girls' basketball fan, Boone Massey said, "Our girls' basketball team rocks my socks."

By: Christer Sonheim

The wrestling season this year was a huge success with a total of seven out of nineteen went to state. Five motivated freshman joined this year and three sophomores returned. Five juniors along with six experienced seniors participated as well. "The highlight of this season was our ability to fill every weight class, except one. Injuries were not a major problem, and we stayed relatively healthy all year," assistant coach Bruce Davidson commented. Salida hosted one dual along with the Rob Mickel tournament, as usual, and did extremely well this season.

State qualifiers this year included Joe Goodwin, Cain Depriest, John New, Mike Mazzucca, Kyle Kuester, Justin Martinez, and Jesse Snyder, who placed 6th overall. The future looks bright for Salida wrestling. "The season went better for the whole team, and we'll be even better next year." said Mike Mazzucca. Coach Davidson said, "Any individual looking for a rewarding experience should take advantage of the talents of head coach, Bob Smith. His insight and dedication are priceless."

Circling our way to state

By: Theresa Parker

This year's track season began bumpy with only eleven girls and ending with nine, but the girls persevered and ended the season with a bang. "The track team has worked their hardest to make it to state, and it's a huge accomplishment for Salida. We're really thankful for all the support our community has given us," says freshman Chelsea Clark. This year 5 girls made it to state: Chelsie Ball in shot put, Ashley Smith in the 4X4 and long jump, Kelsey Young in the 800 meter and 4X4 run, Katie Dreher in triple jump and 4X4, and Sarah Sheets in the 400 and 4X4, and Kim Dissmeyer (alternate). Salida got seventh place in the 4X4, 400, and the 800. Katie Dreher got fifth with triple jump.

Breaking the Finishing TAPE

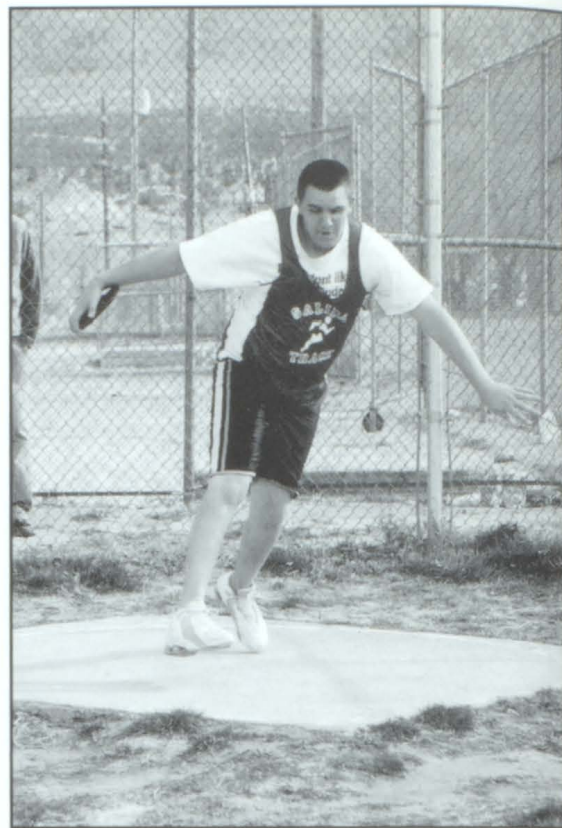

It was a 'rebuilding' season

By: Ryan DeTurk and Matt Kroschel

This year, the boys' track team had a "rebuilding" season. They were a very young team, but full of talent. The team was certainly strengthened with the addition of Seniors Brandon Policky and Clayton Stutts who came out for the first time this season.

This season, Brandon Policky was the lone male runner to represent the Spartans at the state meet. At the regional meet in Bayfield, he placed third overall in the 400 meter run with a time of 53:58. In the triple jump, Senior Ryan Canterbury just missed a state-qualifying jump with a length of 39-2.5, placing fourth in the event. In the 800 meter run, Policky came in fourth with a time of 2:06-60. In various other events, the boys placed, but the places weren't good enough to bring them to the state competition.

Most of the team was pleased with the season, but would have been much happier with more state berths. They were all sure the team would improve a lot by next season, adding the hope the team will continue "to be the first to the finish line."

Love means nothing to this tennis player!

As the season lingered on, coaches Dave Horton and Ed Lambert placed the girls in the following order; #1 singles Elli Bishop, #2 singles Mary Ferraro, #3 singles Christi Erbsen, #1 doubles Kenzi Cleveland and Laura Wancura, #2 doubles Kristen Medina and Brandi Pugh, #3 doubles Kristina Wrigley and Bri Wancura, #4 doubles Jess Lambert and Amber Ogden and alternate Riley Ellis.

This year's team had a promising season. For the first time in Salida's Tennis history, or what Lambert can recall, each player and team won their match against Sierra in Colorado Springs. In other words, the team score for that game was 7-0.

Making History

By: Stephanie

The Salida High School girls' soccer team had double the girls come out for the 2005 season. The varsity team was a team full of veterans, with seven seniors. After last year's heartbreaking loss in the regionals against Pagosa Springs, the girls soccer team decided to get down to business, but still have some fun. Having some history together, the team had no problems getting along. "Playing games, and the bus rides along with everyone having fun was the best part of the season," states senior forward Heather Granzella. After making history as the first girls' soccer team to get past the regional part of the state bracket, the girls' soccer team ended their season in the first round of state, with a record of 11-3-2. They had a great year, full of excitement and accomplishment. The graduating seniors will be missed next year, but they didn't just start a short lived story, they began a legacy.

The 2005 boys' baseball season began with a bang. This can largely be attributed to the amount of experience on the team. With nine returning seniors the season had a great foundation. However, about half way through the season, the boys seemed to lose their momentum. Senior Jake Johnson commented, "The season was great and full of memories. I just wish it would have lasted longer." The boys' final regional game against La Junta ended in defeat, leaving the boys with a final 11-10 record. Old Fashions

The 2004 cheerleading squad broke through this year with a bigger and younger squad. Fall tryouts were held in May. A total of 16 girls tried out, and 11 made the team. Cheri Post and Bernie Wyble returned this year to be the sponsors.

As Salida High celebrated its 125th anniversary, the fall cheerleaders dressed up in 50's clothes for the Homecoming festivities and created an impressive float for the parade. As for the Winter Squad, the season started a little shaky. However, they pulled it together for the Winterfest assembly by dancing to "Nothing To Lose". The squad also went to the state wrestling tournament to support our wrestlers.

Deanna Bowers commented, "The season went pretty good. We all got along and worked together well."

Preparation for the Future

By Madison Cassels

Academic excellence is a strong tradition of Salida High School. For a rural community, Salida provides a wide range of intellectual journeys. A student can choose to focus on classes that could lead to their careers. For example, Salida's auto shop program prepares a students to either attend tech school or merely to change a tire. This proves the openness of the curriculum after fulfilling certain required classes: English (3 years), Science (2 years), Math (2 years), and Health/ Speech (1 semester), etc. To fill a student's open schedule, SHS offers a wide range of classes from entry to high level. In recent years, the school has begun to include online courses in the curriculum. Any student can be accomodated at Salida High. This impressive array prepares students for any destination they choose, be it a junior college, tech school, vocational school, or four-year university. For the duration of Salida High School's existence, it has provided a strong source for education, and shall continue to prepare students for their futures in the real world.

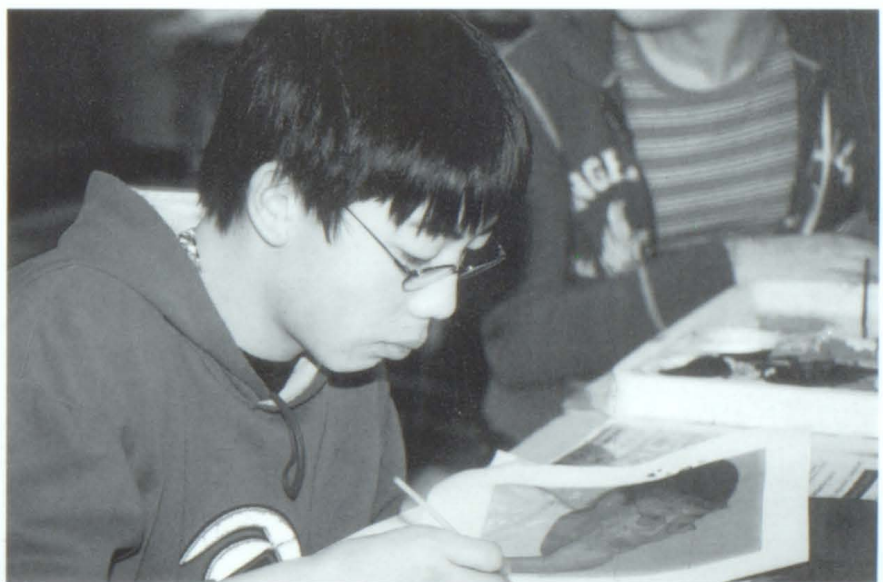

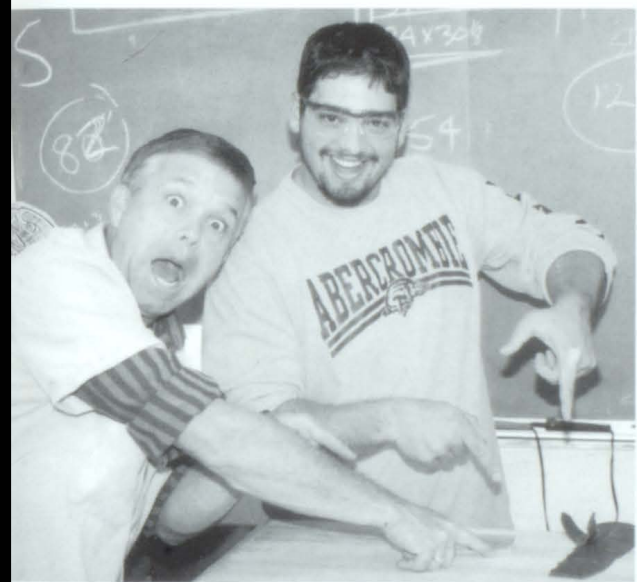

Mending Broken Parts and Molding Clay for Art

By Boone Massey

The industrial arts include Auto Shop, taught by Mr. Best, Woods, taught by Mr. Baldauf, and Art, taught by Ms. Frazee. In auto this year, they have kept very busy helping restore or at least get a few projects running. These projects include old Willy's Jeep and an old 1936 Chevy. Micah Wakeman says, "Four years of auto has prepared me for life." Mr. Baldauf comments about life in the wood shop, "Life is like a trail. Walk careful and enjoy yourself." Brian Smith adds, "Wood shop is a lot of fun. You get to build stuff and see how it all turns out." The art program is going smoothly with a big turn out for their annual art show. Ophus Wong said, "Art is what I do and it is very calming for me." Desiree Welker says, "I really like doing art. It really interests me, and it's fun to learn and create new things."

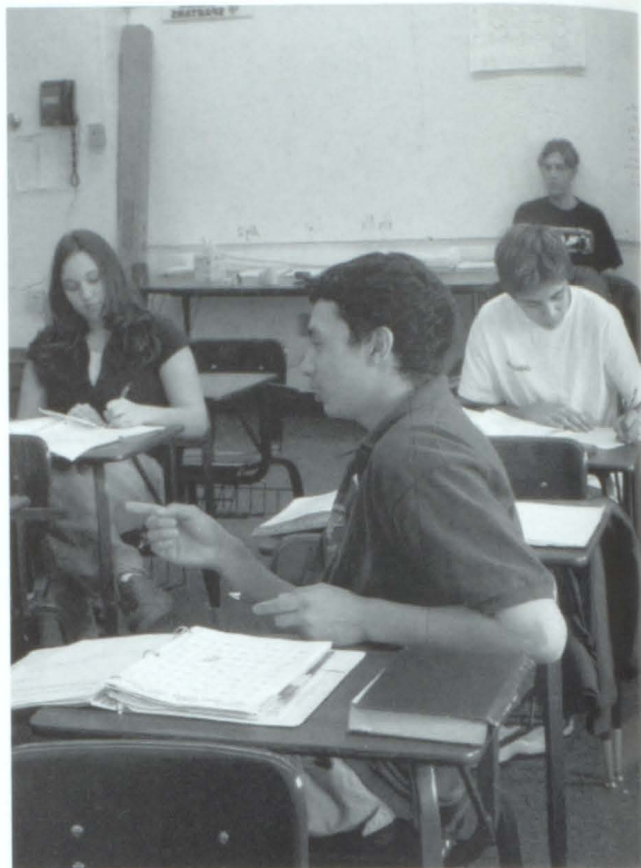

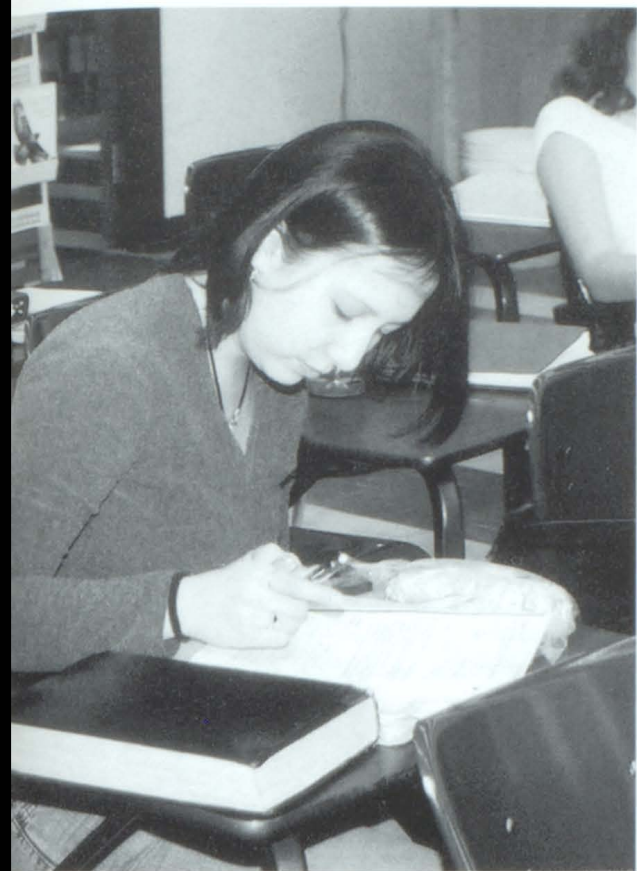

Mitosis of the Mold

Although it still adds up, the math department has decided to alter their approach for the 2004-2005 school year. "We want our students to be better prepared for CSAP's. Ms. Richard and I have changed the order in which we present our curriculum to them. We feel we will accomplish higher scores by following a more effective order in our books," said Mrs. Larson.

This year, Ms. Reidburn joined Mrs. Larson and Ms. Richard in providing a strong math program for students at SHS. "The kids are wonderful, and they work really hard. It's nice to see their involvement outside of academics as well."

Even though the science courses being offered at Salida High School have remained the same, new material has taken over old teaching methods, assignments, and projects. This year, the school received new physical science books. "The updated curriculum has added to our program. This is our first year with new books, so we're adapting to them," said Mr. Bright.

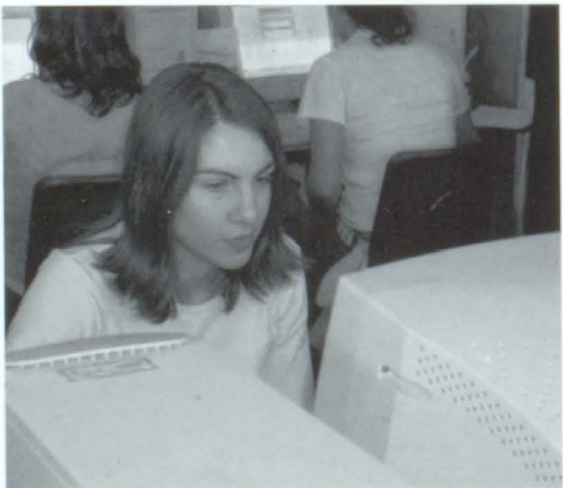

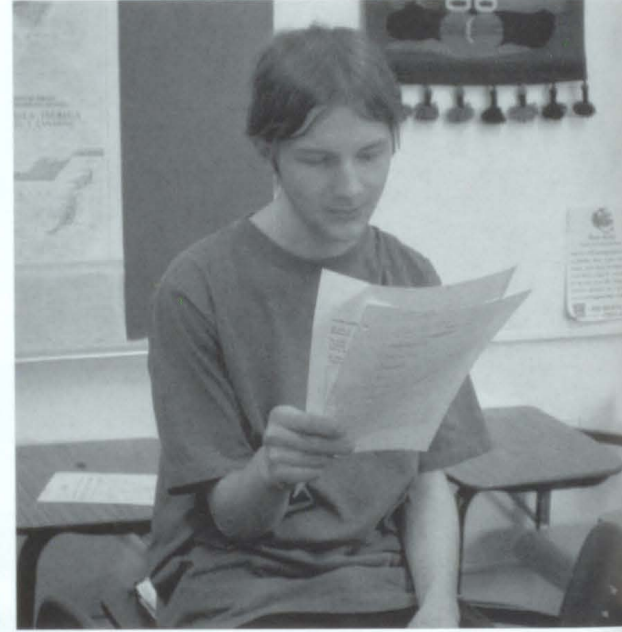

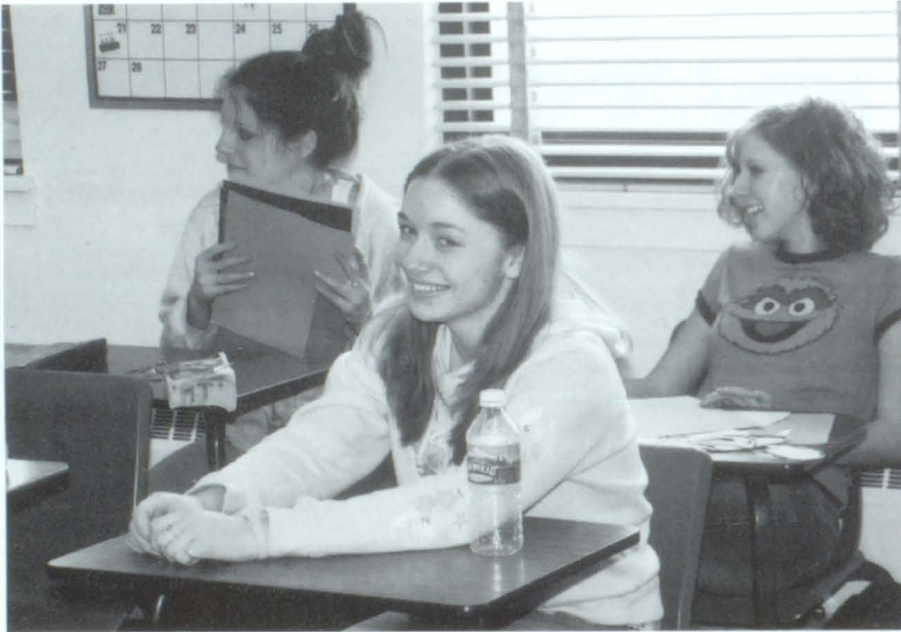

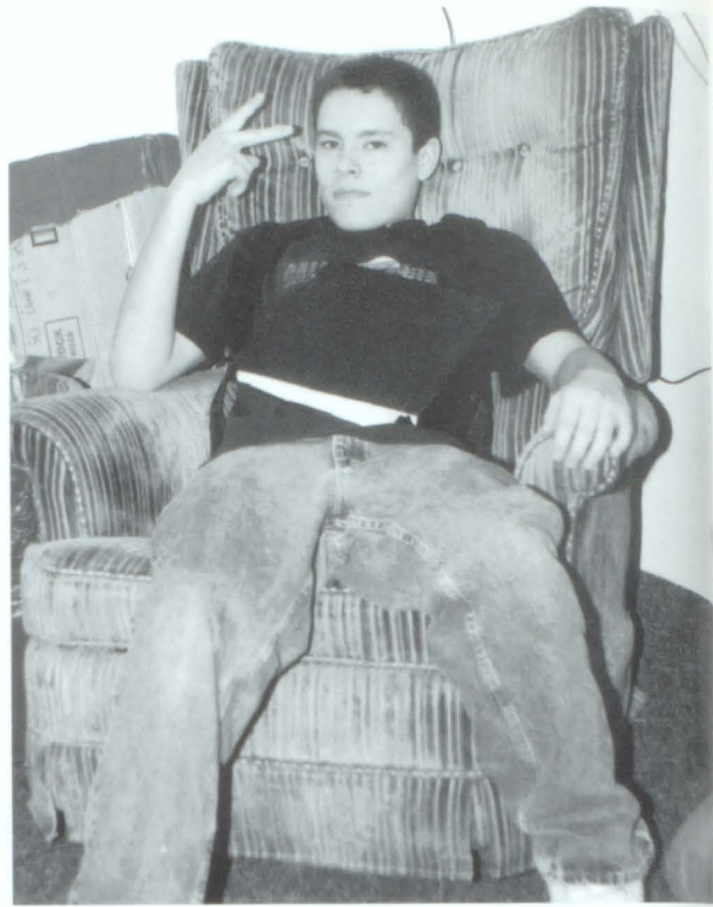

Breaking the Barrier of Business and Language

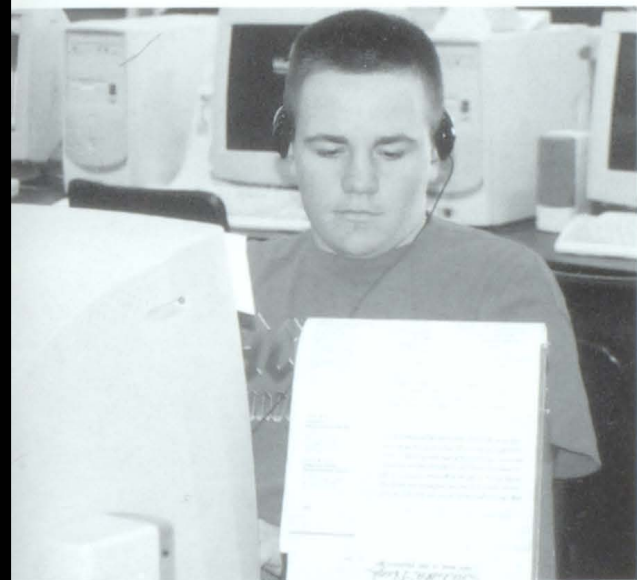

By Paula Ortiz

This year, we're breaking all the rules by taking out the old and bringing in the new. Salida High School has three new teachers in the foreign language and business departments. Ms. Frazee replaced Ms. Nejame in Spanish, Ms. Smith replaced Ms. Palmer in French, and Mr. Delcavo has taken Mrs. Thompson's place in business. Among her new colleagues, Mrs. Stagner continues to help students excel in her computer classes.

The high standards of SHS still remain, but the new teachers are adding different activities. Foreign language can be very challenging, yet this year, everyone is having fun speaking a different language. "It is very fun to watch my students talk to one another in Spanish. They may not say things right, but they're having fun doing it," Ms Frazee added.

Students at Salida High School are spending class time getting down to business. Since business appears in life no matter which path you choose to pursue, Mrs. Stagner and Mr. Delcavo are representing the department and preparing each and every student for the business world. With business and language skills combined, students will continue to succeed throughout their lives!

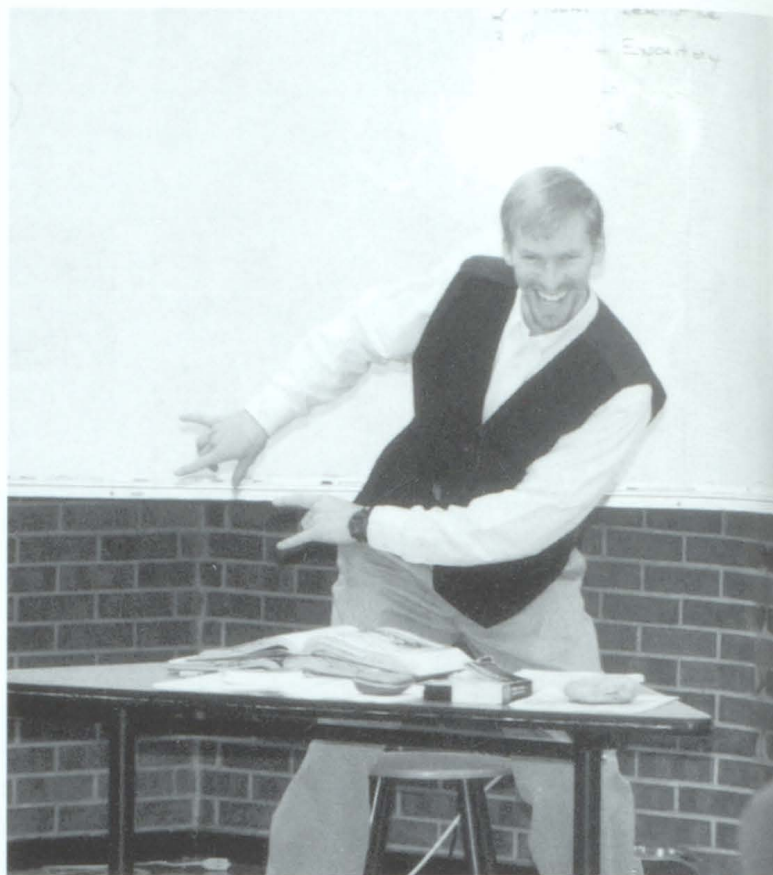

Breaking The Cycle

Although old habits may be hard to break, the English department decided to institute a new tool to their program this year. "Criterion" is now used in all English classes throughout SHS. "Criterion is a computer based learning and testing system," commented Mrs. Slaughter. "It has proven to be very helpful." This new tool should become habit in Salida High for years to come.

They say history repeats itself, and it can be very challenging to break through the neverending pattern. However, this year American History teacher, Ed Lambert, has decided to break old habits. He has incorporated role playing into his teaching methods by portraying historical figures. "It's an alternative way to create understanding among students," he said. "I've also decided to focus on raising awareness concerning Pearl Harbor, Nagasaki and Hiroshima throughout my classes. I plan on continuing to do so in the future as well."

Breaking Eggs and Molding Legs

By Matt Nance and Hailey Haro

"This is my first year in teaching P.E. I, and I have really enjoyed teaching this course," said Mrs. Jane Johnson P.E. I teacher. Also in his first year of teaching P.E. I, Mr. Stephen Guccione is Mrs. Johnson's assistant. Another activity that Guccione participates with is weightlifting. Johnson and Guccione deal with a class size of 16-20 students. Considering the larger class size, they have done a variety of activities, such as flag football, volleyball, frisbee, hockey, fitness, soccer, basketball, badminton, ping pong, lacrosse, bowling, swimming, games, golf, tennis, and softball. Johnson and Guccione have strived to make this course challenging for the athletes but interesting and developmental for those that aren't. With only their first year of teaching P.E.I, they are breaking all of the old rules and making new ones.

Kathy Kerrigan was a freshman in college when she chose to become a Home Economics teacher. Ms. Kerrigan has been teaching Human Development, Life management, Relationships, Fiber arts, Foods I and II, Clothing I, II, III, and IV, Independent Clothing, Health (a Sophomore required class), and sponsors Family Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) a high school level club. "It's cool that some of the kids that cut other classes come to my room to hang with me," Kerrigan said. A few of the students attend her classes more than one period a day, some as much as three periods. Home Economics offers many things that will prepare students for the future, such as sewing, cooking, and life skills, but most importantly, health and nutrition. With these important skills, Ms. Kerrigan is helping to mold our futures.

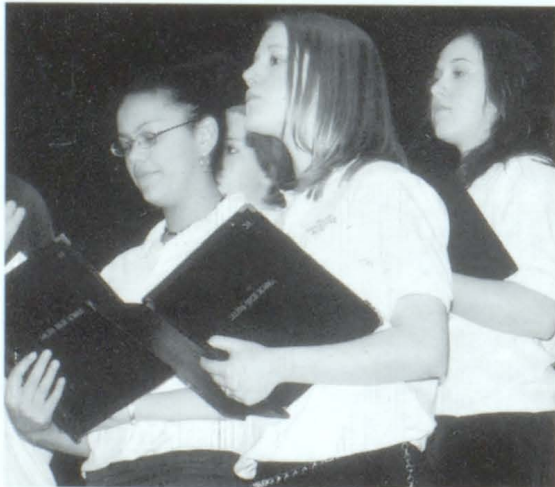

Breaking The Sound Barrier

In the past couple of years, the Salida band has been put through a lot of rough times, but now they are raising the bar and becoming one of the best bands in the state, once again. "The students broke through the difficulties of last year and found the great music within them," said new band teacher, Mr. Dan Bowerly. "Salida students are awesome. I am grateful to have the opportunity to work with them each and every day." With the former director leaving early last spring, students weren't sure what would happen, but as the year progressed, Mr. Bowerly has helped the students to love music again. "Mr. Bowerly supports us and is a great teacher," said Freshmen Lorisa Myers.

Across the hall, music blares, not through instruments, but through vocal cords. Mrs. Timbrell is very impressed with the choir students' effort toward their musical work. "We are fortunate to have Mrs. Davidson, Music Assistant and Accompanist." Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Timbrell are both very proud of the students and truly enjoy working together. The choir students at Salida High School combined their vocal skills to sing a variety of different musical arrangements. The choir has many returning upperclassmen as well as new students. All have achieved a cohesive, mature vocal sound. "We are always welcoming and encouraging guys to join choir." says Mrs. Timbrell. Music has always been a large part of Salida High's achievements and will continue to astonish its fans.

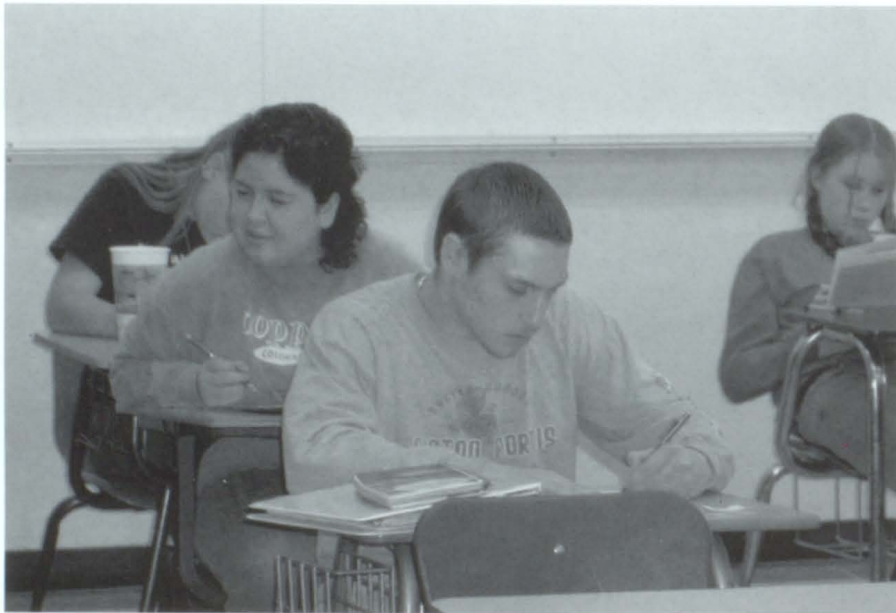

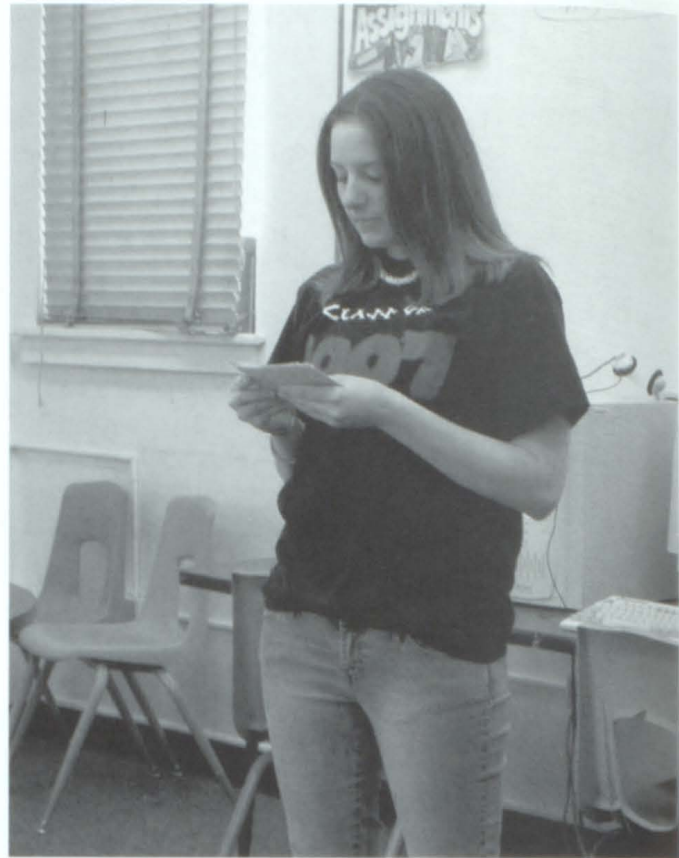

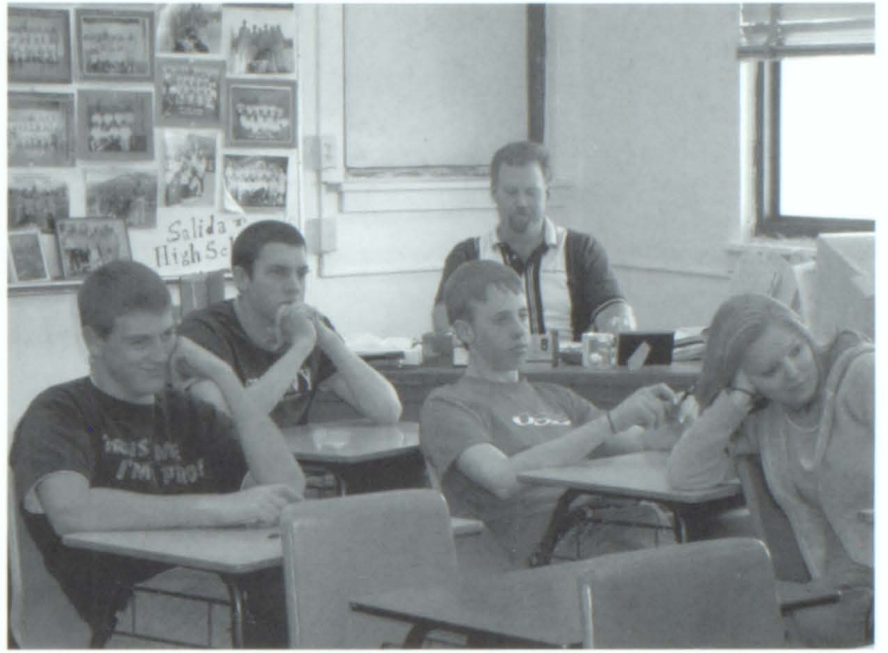

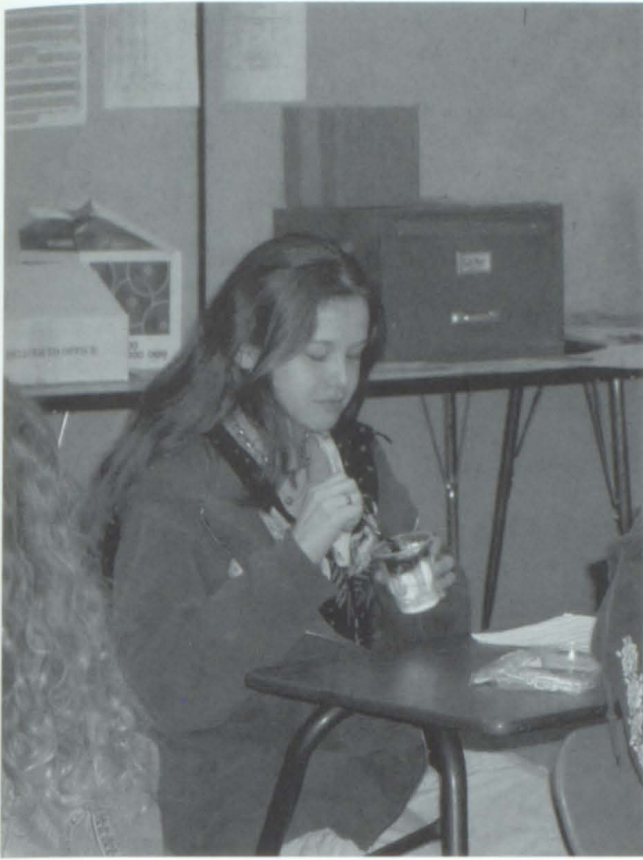

DON'T Eat the Mold!

By Kaycee Yenter

More has been done than just breaking down the basics in health class this year. Mrs. Kerrigan, who teaches human sexuality, doesn't leave out any details. Mr. Cogan helps break away from the ordinary with his pizzazz when he teaches the drug and alcohol section of health. Health is only a semester class that is split between Mrs. Kerrigan and Mr. Cogan. Both of these amazing teachers make sure to cover everything from nutrition to the effects of drugs and alcohol. As a required class, no sophomore gets out of this adventure.

To fill in the other semester, sophomores have the experience of breaking their stage fright. Speech is a class that is all about interaction. Weekly speeches are given and performed in front of their fellow classmates, and everyone is required to perform for the school by reading the daily announcements. Fear is something that all students need to break. With the right teachers and activities, speech helps the sophomores on their way.

Breaking the Mold of Design

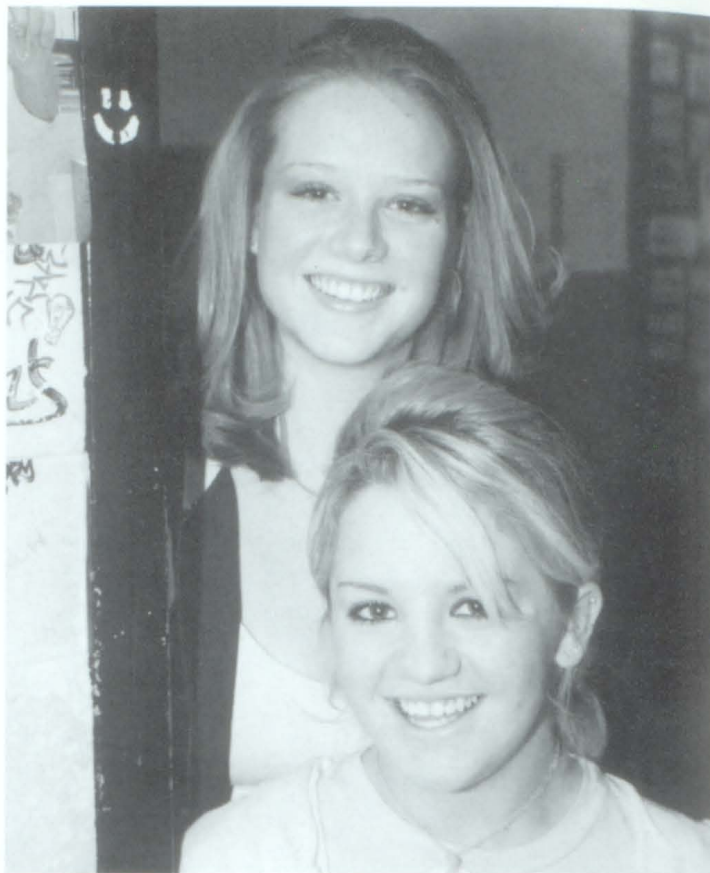

By Matt Kroschel

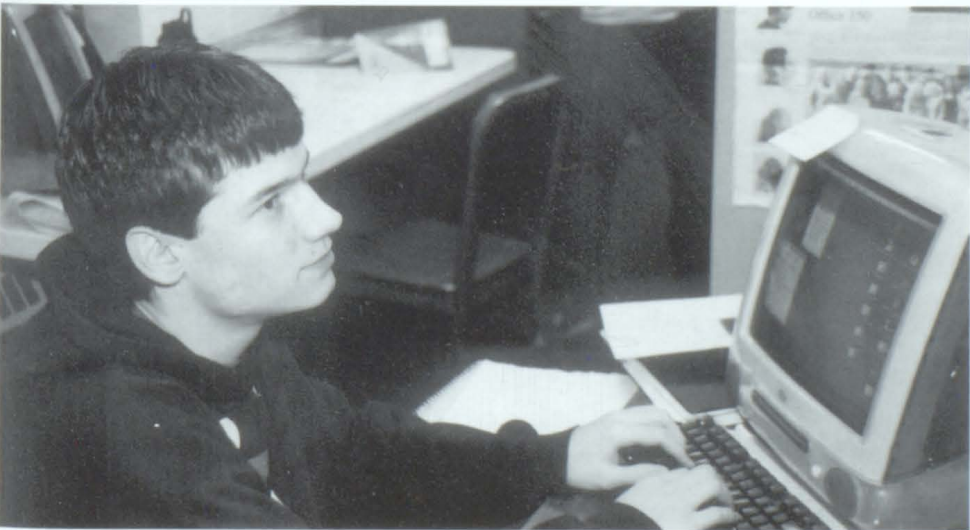

After another successful year of newspapers, the Tenderfoot Times is gearing up for a hopeful and exciting new year. Tenderfoot sponsor Yvette Roberts said, "I am very pleased with the staff this year. It was really nice to put out such a good paper and to get so much positive feedback from the community." The Tenderfoot Times staff took steps this year to strengthen the paper. "We worked hard to give the paper a new look that appealed to everyone," said reporter Kayla Surber.

Senior Elli Bishop looked back on four years with the paper. "Being part of the paper has been a lot of fun, and a lot of stress. I feel privileged to have had such an exceptional group of editors throughout the years."

Sophomore Melissa McGraugh said, "Tenderfoot is a great paper to work on. Yeah, there's the stress that comes with producing the paper, but when it comes down to it, the juice is worth the squeeze."

Tenderfoot had two editors this year which was a new occurrence. Heidi Olver was editor first semester, and Jeremy Yarosz took over her duties for the second semester. The staff won a number of awards for the year and wrote new and fun stories that were enjoyed by the school as well as the community. Tenderfoot Times is continually breaking the mold in the aspects of its daily work.

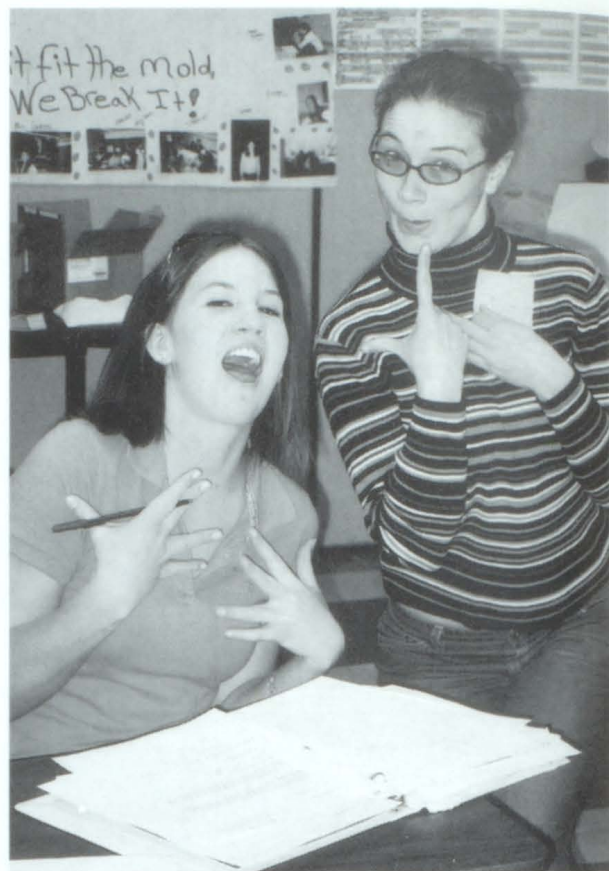

We Don't Fit the Mold, We Create It!

By Crissa Nachtrieb and Emily Blakely

With several seniors leaving last year, we have broken the mold and we are on our way to making another great yearbook. Our theme for the 2004-2005 yearbook is "We Don't Fit the Mold, we Break it". This is the biggest staff that Ms. Curtis has had so far in her 3rd year as the yearbook sponsor.

At the beginning of the school year, the yearbook staff did their part selling ads in order to raise money to make the yearbook possible. The editors have put in many long and stressful hours, but because of that the yearbook is looking great.

Editors: Madison Cassels (Editor-in-chief), Sarah

Good-Bye to the Class of 2005!

Finally the quest has come to an end! We've put our effort and dedication on the line to make it this far. At last, we've crossed the finish line and stretched beyond our boundaries. Now that we'll be moving out and moving on, we can make our own decisions and rules! We are creating the future, what a scary thought! Good Luck out there!

From your Editors: Sarah McLearn, Madison Cassels, & Crissa Nachtrieb
