The School Board

X 474

(By FRANKIE CARSON, '10.)

R. P. Rubin

President.

J. C. Woody

Secretary.

Mr. R. P. Rubin came to Colorado from Wisconsin in the year 1884. He has lived in Chaffee county since 1886 and in Salida since 1892.

Mr. Rubin has been a member of the Board for seven years and has been president of the same for five or six years. He is also a member of the State legislature, and it was largely through him that a state law was passed making it possible to secure the bonds for the building of our new $35,000 high school.

During his administration, the assembly room of the high school has been enlarged, new class rooms provided, a new room for the laboratory and appliances for the same have been procured, the laboratory having formerly been up stairs and is now in the basement. New books have been added to the library, making it a first class one, where, formerly, there was practically no library at all.

Mr. Rubin says that everything has been done that could possibly be done with the means provided.

Mr. F. C. Woody is from Iowa, having come to Salida from that state twenty years ago. He is now connected with the First National bank.

Mr. Woody has been on the school board for six years and is now secretary of the same. When he was first elected on the Board there were fewer courses and not such good standing in athletics as at present. Music and art have been put in the school since he was elected.

W. E. Crutcher

Mr. W. E. Crutcher is from the "Sunny South." He came to Salida from Kentucky eleven years ago. At present he is in the wholesale business.

Mr. Crutcher has been a member of the school Board for four years. At the time of his election the high school was in about the same condition as now, with the exception of an

English teacher being added to the faculty.

was elected as a member for the five year term.

E. R. Alexander

Mr. E. R. Alexander is also from Iowa. He has lived here for twenty-three years and has been in the grocery business for the same number of years.

Mr. Alexander was appointed a member of the school Board in Mr. Jackson's place in 1908. May 3, 1910, he

E. S. Plimpton, Sr.

Mr. E. S. Plimpton, Sr., is from Iowa, having come to Salida nine years ago. He is now in New York visiting relatives.

Mr. Plimpton has been on the board for about four years. Owing to his absence, nothing further of certainty can be said about him.

The Faculty

(By ABBY REED, '10.)

Salida High School is indeed fortunate in having such a faculty. No high school can boast a better. Our teachers represent some of the best

Edgar E. Kesner, Supt.

Mr. Kesner, our superintendent, was graduated from the University of Colo-colleges and universities, and are experienced in their line of instruction. Nor are their capabilities confined only to the subjects of which they are instructors, but their interest in other things makes them the most valuable teachers.

CLARENCE E. TANTON, Prin.

rado, Boulder, with the degree of Ph. B. For two years, '92-'94, he was principal of the Fairplay schools, and later principal of the Highland Building at Boulder. Mr. Kesner came to Salida in 1897 and for one year was principal of the high school. Since 1898 he has been superintendent of Salida Public schools.

Words cannot express the versatility of Mr. Kesner and his interest and ability have been of great value to Salida schools.

"A kinder and a better man
The world has never known."

Clarence E. Tanton, Prin.

Our principal, Mr. Tanton, came to us three years ago as instructor of Mathematics and Science. For the past two years he has been principal of the high school.

Mr. Tanton is a graduate of the Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa. He taught Science in the high school at Orange City, Iowa, for two years, and was principal of the Bryant school, Boone, Iowa. For two years before coming to Salida, he was principal of the high school at Park City, Utah.

Mr. Tanton's interest in athletics has been of value to our high school; for, had it not been for his efficient training, our basketball teams would probably not have earned the good record they now have.

Sarah Dow

Miss Dow entered Salida High School in 1907 as instructor of English.

She is a graduate of the University of Colorado. She taught English and Latin in the Ouray High School, and taught Latin in Telluride and Trinidad High Schools before coming here.

Her interest and ability make her a valuable addition to the faculty.

Deborah O. Pearsall

Miss Pearsall, our Algebra and History teacher, was graduated from the Grove City College, Pa., and Bryn Mawr College, Pa., with the degrees of A. B. and A. M. For one year she taught Greek at the Grove City Preparatory school, and two years previous to coming here she taught History in Greenville, Pa. Miss Pearsall has been a member of the faculty for three years, and has charge of History and Advanced Algebra.

Mary Shomler

Miss Shomler came to us this year from Montezuma, Iowa, where, for two years previous, she had been supervisor of music and drawing. She attended Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and graduated from the Prang Summer School of Drawing, and the National Summer School of Music, Chicago.

E. A. Kenyon

Mr. Kenyon came from Florence, Colo., this year as instructor of Science and German. He was born in Michigan and graduated from the Michigan Parma High School and Michigan Normal College. He was principal of the Stockbridge, Michigan, High School one year before coming to Colorado. For four years he was principal at Rockvale and then went to Florence, where he organized the department of Science. Mr. Kenyon was in Florence thirteen years and held the positions of principal and superintendent.

For the past six years, he has been director of the school of science at the Colorado-Texas Chautauqua at Boulder.

Elwyn E. Baker

Mr. Baker, our Latin teacher, came to Salida this year from Cheyenne, Wyo., where for two years he had been instructor of Latin. He is a graduate of the Washington, Iowa, High School and Washington Academy. He was graduated from Drake University in 1906 with the degree of A. B., and in 1909 received the added degree of A. M. In 1906-07 he was principal of the Prescott, Iowa, schools.

Mr. Baker's interest and ability make him considered a valuable member of our faculty and we give to him the credit of the starting of the successful "Orio Society" and our beloved "Tenderfoot."

Class Song

BY HELEN SHONYO, '10.

Tune: “Absinthe Frappe.”

The day has come at last
When we leave the gold and blue;
The class of nineteen hundred ten
Has other work to do.
And as a class, we swiftly pass
Away, away,
And sadly bid our school farewell.
Farewell today!

CHORUS—

To our teachers first let us give our thanks
To a patience that none could excel;
To each classmate dear,
Who, for many a year,
Has stood by our colors so well;
May you place each name on the ladder of fame,
And work for promotion for aye;
May you make the start with a hopeful heart,
As we say farewell today!

Class History

(By EVELYN FOSS, '10).

To tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, about the class of 1910, may prove an easy task, but an uninteresting recital. While we bors: of our victories, we must also acknowledge some defeats. A class that has no defeat is not schooled for the battles of life, where competition is encountered on every hand. Let us hope that our high school experience has taught us not to be petulant in defeat, not over-confident in victory.

On the morning of September 6, 1906, forty-five green Freshmen climbed the stairs of Sal da High School, and true to the instincts of all Freshies, awkwardly and timorously dropped into the back seats of the assembly room. Although modest outwardly, yet inwardly confident that a few days only would be needed to display to the faculty and other students the superiority of their attainments and ability. Some of us had the impression when we completed the eighth grade work that we were full fledged High School students; but we soon found our mistake. We needed a few hard knocks before we could emerge from our state of verdancy and innocence, and be incorporated with the student body. The accommodating Sophomores were not slow in getting us in training for advancement, for before we had learned the bewildering signals, or learned to recognize our text books by their color, we found ourselves in the midst of a pitched battle. This war grew to such proportions that it was consuming all our time, and was finally checked by the firm hand of the authorities. When this form of hazing was prohibited, the upper class men established good feeling by welcoming us to a masquerade party. Our happiness was complete, for we felt that we were then a part of the high school. Later, we tried to show our appreciation, by giving a little excursion to Wellsville.

After the holidays, we undertook, supervised by Miss Craig, our English teacher, to present Longfellow's "Masque of Pandora." This entertainment was quite successful, and our friends showed their appreciation of our efforts by filling every available space, even halls and stairways.

The teachers who initiated us into high school mysteries were Mr. Beeler, principal; Mr. DeBruyn, Mr. Briggs, Miss Craig.

Our Sophomore year of 1907-1908 gave promise of being a successful, happy one. Athletics took an upward tendency, and our football boys were never more hopeful of victory. Two games were played, resulting in our favor. During the third game, on the Leadville field, one of our classmates, Arthur Cope, was seriously injured and it was thought best to discontinue the game. He was brought to the Red Cross hospital, at Salida, where everything was done to make him as comfortable as could be, since nothing in the way of permanent relief was possible. Although suffering intensely, he expressed the hope that his accident would not in any way interfere with athletics in the high school. Two days later he passed away.

Arthur was one of the most promising members of the class, large in hope, courage and ambition. He was a general favorite, not only in school but also in the community. It was hard for us to be reconciled; for we were young in years, in experience and in grief. We trust that Time will bring with it the confidence that

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright is Heaven's jeweled crown,
They shine forever more.

There is no Death! The leaves may fall
And flowers may fade and pass away;
They only wait through wintry hours
The coming of the May.

After this sad occurrence, all athletics were abandoned, and the year was a quiet, uneventful one. One contest was held, in which the Sophomores challenged the Juniors to a debate, and in which the Juniors defeated us.

Our teachers for the Sophomore year were: Mr. Thompson, principal;

Mrs. Tanton, Mr. DeBruyn, Miss Dow, Miss Pearsall and Miss Carr.

By the time we had reached our Junior year, our ranks had been reduced in numbers to about thirty-five members. Aside from our regular school work, several very pleasant functions were planned and successfully carried out. The Junior boys entertained the girls at a Hallowe'en party at the home of Frank Berlin; and the girls gave a return Valentine party at the home of Ruth Whitehurst. This was the year we were privileged to serve and wait upon the dignified Seniors, and we hope they enjoyed it as much as we did. A reception was given them at the home of one of our classmates, Helen Alexander. As the classes were both large about sixty guests sat down to a seven o'clock dinner. Toasts were responded to by various persons in attendance, and a most delightful time was enjoyed.

In the closing exercises of the school, the Juniors assisted the Seniors, as is customary; and this, too, was a new and novel experience. The instructors for the Junior year were, Mr. Tanton, principal; Mr. DeBruyn, Mr. Kelso, Miss Dow and Miss Pearsall.

The opening of the school year, 1909-1910, saw thirty-one Seniors in place. During the year, three dropped, leaving twenty-nine to struggle on to completion.

The last year has been the merriest of them all. We started out with the determination to make this year the most pleasant, as well as the most beneficial one of the four. About two weeks after the opening of the fall term, we began our social life by taking a hay-rack ride to Poncha Springs. We had a picnic supper, which was served by moonlight, the weather being ideal. Next, the girls entertained the faculty and boys of the class, at a party at the home of Frances Reilly. Theater parties and small home parties have been greatly enjoyed. On February 22nd, the girls of the class were delightfully entertained by Helen Shonyo and Mary Carmean, at the home of the latter. On the occasion of his birthday, Leon Lip-pard entertained the boys of the class, at six o'clock dinner and theater party.

On Friday before Christmas vacation, Mr. Kenyon caught the spirit of the approaching holidays and kindly permitted a fudge party in the laboratory. In the spring vacation, a Senior picnic was held at Marvin's Grove. Not wanting to enjoy all our good times by ourselves we gave two entertainments for the rest of the high school the first being a monologue with tableaux, and the last, a mock trial.

In no previous year had Salida High School captured so many honors in the athletic field. In the girls' basketball team there were four Seniors, in the boys' team, three. The successes were remarkable and the defeats so slight as to be hardly worthy of notice.

Notwithstanding that all these social and athletic affairs took much time, our work was not neglected and the grades of this year, will compare very favorably with those of former years.

The teachers who brought this year to a successful close were, Mr. Tanton, principal; Miss Pearsall, Miss Dow, Miss Shomler, Mr. Baker and Mr. Kenyon.

During the past four years, and, indeed, during the entire school life of some of the class, we have had as our superintendent and friend, Mr. Kesner. While he has not been engaged in active teaching, yet he has been teaching all the time, by precept, example, and genial personality. Although students are not a rule, credited with appreciating their opportunities, still we know that it has been a great privilege to come under the influence of a man with so broad and noble a character.

The history of the class of 1910 is recorded. We feel that we merit some consideration, some censure, and a liberal supply of charity.

REVIEW OF THE SCHOOL YEAR.

(By EVELYN FOSS, '10.)

The school year of 1909-10 is fast drawing to a close. Its opportunities, its discouragements and failures, its joys and successes are yet fresh in our minds, but will soon be matters of history. A few more weeks and the Freshmen will give place to the eighth grade graduates and will assume the responsibilities of Sophomores; the Sophomores and Juniors will move a step higher, and the Seniors will pack their books, bid farewell to school, faculty and classmates, and prepare for the sterner duties of life.

The past year has been characterized by faithful, efficient, enjoyable work along all lines. Harmony has been the keynote. Very little class or factional disturbance has been noted; and while we have heard rumors of war on all sides from abroad, yet we have had peace at home.

Our school was re-enforced in September by 58 Freshmen, 29 Sophomores, 24 Juniors and 31 Seniors reporting for work. Although in every year failures are bound to occur, we hope that this year the number will be reduced to the minimum.

While some serious illnesses have been prevalent, yet all cases made good recovery and it is believed that there will be no failure on this account. This year has also been singularly free from bacteria anoris, Cupid having claimed but one victim, to date.

The semi-weekly choruses have been highly appreciated. Two glee clubs have been organized, and although they have not given any entertainments, have been practicing faithfully, and are in good condition for the work at the closing of the year.

Among the new features of the year might be mentioned the publication of the high school paper, "The Tenderfoot," and the organization of the Orio Debating society. "The Tenderfoot" has proved such an inspiration and such a source of pleasure to its contributors and patrons, that we are assured of its permanency. The debating club has been both instructive and entertaining. It has a strong membership, which will no doubt be greatly increased next year. Much thanks is due Prof. Baker for his untiring efforts in the organization and support of these institutions.

At no time has work been so urgent that it could not be laid aside, temporarily, while we listened to some excellent advice from school and university men from all over the state. We have also enjoyed interesting talks by local, professional and business men. The different classes have provided entertainment on several occasions, so that the year has been anything but monotonous.

In nothing have we made better showing than in our athletic record. Our football season showed us only one defeat, while our basketball season was a continued round of successes, both girls' and boys' teams carrying off the championship of Central, Western and Southern Colorado. Out of thirteen games played by the boys, only two games were lost, both of these games being played on the opponents' field. Out of eleven games played by the girls, only one game was lost, the defeat being wholly due to the fact that one of the best players was unable to take her place. Wonderful material has been exhibited in our baseball and track teams—two apparently new lines of athletics in the S. H. S.

From these facts, which have been given, and many more which might be given, it may be seen that Salida High School has taken advance ground which she means to hold. Certainly, the past year has been filled with a series of achievements and victories.

THE ADIEU.

We loved thee, LOVED THEE, LOVED THEE,

Alma Mater!

And, oh, our hearts are breaking as we part!
With heads bowed low, the tears come hotly streaming.

As from thee, Alma Mater, we depart.

How fast the wings of time speed on! We can scarcely believe that it was all of eight months ago that "The Tenderfoot" staff first picked up their pencils, and, after several long, tireless efforts, suddenly created a little paper that gradually listed Salida High School as one of the leading high schools in the state. And yet the calendar never lies.

As we slowly turn back the pages of time and note the weeks that have sped by so hastily, we pause to meditate upon the many, fanciful, stirring events of the past. Then, after carefully noting the improvements that we have gradually made in our work, we give that same sigh of relief that is so common with most every college and high school staff; push the blue pencil, pen, and ink aside in the same manner that every staff does when its year's hard work is done; rise stiffly from our seats; and, half joyfully, half regretfully, clink our glasses in a rousing toast to the future success of The Tenderfoot! Then, with bowed heads, we slowly turn and reverently cross the threshold,—faintly, sorrowfully murmuring the adieu.

A MAGIC SERMON.

On a Sunday evening not long ago, I strolled out languidly towards the new high school building, shortly after the sun had dropped below the border of the hazy, blue mountain's edge. I was in one of those sweet, detestible moods that are so common to overtaxed nerves; one of those delightfully, miserable moods that comes over one when he is constantly realizing that there is such an astonishingly large amount of work for him to do in such an astonishingly small amount of time. Accordingly, when I reached the building, I was not surprised at finding myself kicking angrily at several bricks that lay tauntingly in my way.

Because I had nothing else to do, I climbed up to the top story, and from there, on up to the highest rafters of the temporarily constructed roof, and, after reaching the highest and most dangerous position I could find, I seated myself comfortably and looked down, spitefully reflecting that if I fell, someone else would be obliged to do the much dreaded work that had been assigned to me.

While I was thus soliloquizing, the faint tinkle-tinkle of a cow-bell reached my ears and I slowly raised my head and gazed about me,—for the first time to survey the beautiful landscape which lay before me, in every direction that I chanced to look. It was a perfect summer evening. The dull sky had slowly turned to iridescent gray; the rugged mountains in the distance were harmoniously painted in blue mist; the scores of beautiful shade trees, that lined the streets of the quiet city below, stood peacefully welcoming the gathering haze of eventide; and the tiny, rippling streamlets, that flowed joyfully beneath the trees, coolly reflected the dull shadows of the rustling leaves,—in short, the invisible form of Nature was welcoming any friend, who might chance to have the fancy to listen, and pour into his ears the secrets of her magic powers.

As I sat there, from my elevated position, breathing deeply of the breezes that whipped my face as they tenderly wafted the fragrance of apple blossoms from orchards they had shortly caressed—slowly my heretofore almost unbearable mood was changed to one of peace and content. Not a care perturbed my mind as I joyfully gazed down into the City of Dreams. There before me lay the abode of painters who labored for Art alone; the place of poets who sang incessantly; the home of singers who sang forever from the heart. For an infinite moment, the whole world was changed and dreams had become a reality.

Shortly the somber twilight gave way to dark, and a light, from one of the windows of a house near by, winked knowingly at me. The church bells tolled out mournfully and soon the streets were no longer deserted. For a while I sat watching the people slowly wend their way to church, until the magic secrets, that were being whispered into my ear, had ceased with the passing of my dreams. But, shortly after, as I walked slowly homeward, the fragrance of that magic sermon lingered fondly in my heart.

A VOICE FROM THE OFFICE.

When we read the following appreciative article from the generous hand of one of the faculty, we immediately exclaimed that "them'er were our sentiments, too!" Here they are:

FACTS ABOUT THE TENDERFOOT.

The Tenderfoot is now one year old. We think you will agree with us that it is a pretty vigorous youngster for a yearling.

When we undertook the publication of a high school paper last fall, we did so with some trepidation as to our success. Our high school is small—the enrollment is less than 150—and is situated in a small town. To turn out a paper which would compare favorably with our exchanges was a larger undertaking for us than for those schools which are located in cities of considerable size and wealth. Our only hope lay in the business men's support of our advertising columns. The students were positive in their opinion that the business men would support us, and they were equally firm in their assertions, that they, the students, would do their part. So we made the effort, and you have seen the result.

It is not our purpose here to speak of the merits of our paper, or of high school papers in general. We design in this place to render thanks to those to whom thanks are due. First, to the advertisers, without whose assistance success would have been impossible. Their support has been generous and comforting. Then to the school authorities for co-operation and encouragement; to the superintendent, principal, and teachers, for their aid in the preparation of material and in other ways. Next, to the staff, who have worked faithfully and cheerfully in the preparation of the magazine. Too much credit cannot be given to them, particularly to the editor and business managers, for what they have done. Then to the student body in general, for the manifestation of loyalty by a large subscription list and by various other means.

To those mentioned, and to all others who have helped us in any way, we say, "Thank you!"

ACT I.

The story opens at Kate and Wanda's home, the day before the girls leave for Vassar.

Kate Newton and Wanda Caroll are half sisters. John Willett and Amos North are desperately in love with Kate, but Kate much prefers John Willett. Wanda is also in love with John, but he does not care for her. Amos is a wealthy banker and, knowing that Wanda loves John, plots with her to keep Kate and John apart. John is called to New York on business. He hasten to tell Kate, but finds her out. He then writes a note explaining the cause of his sudden departure, and leaves it for Wanda to give to her. When Kate return, Wanda takes the opportunity, destroys the letter, tells Kate that John has gone to New York, and that he has been false to her. Kate, in order to spite John, resolves to marry Amos North.

ACT II.

Kate, at Vassar, gives an afternoon party, and invites Amos to give him an opportunity of proposing to her. John Willett, during this time, has been writing to Kate, but Wadan, first getting the letters, destroys them. In the last one he writes, he speaks of his intended visit.

While the girls are making ready for the "spread," Amos proposes to Kate. Just as she is about to give her consent, John Willett enters. She is very much surprised and spurns him. Before John has a chance to explain, she calls all of the guests, and in the presence of all, announces her engagement to Amos North. John makes some remark and departs. Immediately after John leaves, Kate takes back the promise she has made.

ACT III.

Kate and Wanda, with several girl friends from Vassar, are spending Christmas vacation at home. On Christmas Eve, all go for a sleigh ride except Kate, who remains with her mother. While all are away, Mrs. Caroll tells Kate of the misfortune she has had, in that she has lost all of her money by giving it to Amos North to invest for her in "Brewer's Certificates." While Mrs. Carroll is relating her story, Amos North calls and demands more money. Kate tells her mother that she will do anything in her power. Amos then makes the

GOODBYE TO THE OLD SCHOOL BUILDING.

(By NEITA FLEMING, '13.)

Old high school,—good-bye! Good-bye! It is with saddened hearts that we tenderly whisper that word which will leave you a dearly loved memory; yes, only a lingering, ashes-of-roses memory.

But through it all, the golden-winged minutes of fun smile through the tear mist and cheer us with recollections of bygone times. Oh, battered building, was there ever an hour when jollity was not ensconced as ruler supreme?

Perhaps, when we are "housed as men should be," we will look back and wonder how we ever walked down your narrow, dark stairs; how we ever breathed in rooms that for ventilation would put a "sweatshop in the shade"; how we ever recited (?) in your sardine-can rooms, and, oh! ye Powers Eternal, will the athletes ever remember how the keen north wind whistled through their airy apparel as they performed Herculean feats under the eye of that vigilant, eagle-eyed sentinel, the janitor?

Mayhap that dignified Senior, stalking around with his head in the clouds, will miss the numerous obstacles in the shapes of six-year-old humanity, who now insist in planting themselves directly in the Senior's way.

Even the meek Freshmen, trying to make themselves unobtrusive, may wonder how they can exist another hour without the music of the tin dippers' clank as it drops in the water under the faucet. Poets may talk of "the o'd oaken bucket," and "the moss covered well," but this cracked water-spout beats 'em all.

Speak, ye Alcove, how will you feel when the Juniors are absent and cannot put their feet delicately through your window panes?

Speak, oh Piano, and tell us if your keys will ever more chant the melodies that have so surely won a place in our memory-laden hearts?

Will you, Assembly Hall, sometime wonder about the people who have so loved you and who have passed out of your life forever?

Carissima, perhaps we have chafed under the restraint of your time-stained walls, but the learning that we have grasped, we humbly thank you for.

So, bid us bon voyage, oh, House of Wisdom, waft upon the June air your sighs, and give us a cheery farewell while we bravely whisper through our tears, "Goodbye,—goodbye."

OUR NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

(By ESTHER DeWEESE, '10.)

One of the largest and best equipped high schools in this part of the State is the one now in course of construction on the corner of Tenth and D streets.

The outside measurement of the building will be 95 x 86 feet and will consist of two stories and a basement. The walls are of light-colored pressed brick, trimmed with stone.

The basement will have a cement floor and will be divided into two divisions; one for boys, which will contain the manual training room, and the other for girls, which will contain the department of domestic science and domestic art. Beside these, there will be separate toilets, lunch and wash rooms, and janitor's apartments.

The main entrance leads into a large hall, 24 x 40 feet on the first floor in which a sanitary drinking fountain will be placed. There are two stairways in the hall, one leading to the basement and the other to the second floor. The superintendent's office and

THE FUTURE OF OUR HIGH SCHOOL.

(By ALICE CROCKETT, '10)

Our high school has great possibilities opening up before her. Opportunities are arising for the future high school student that have before only been vague dreams.

A thorough look over the new high school building, with its splendid equipments, is enough to make the student's heart thrill as he thinks of the secrets of knowledge that are waiting for him to dig out.

There is the library with its stock of all sorts of books; fiction for light reading and reference books by which the text books are made easier. The

YE JOLLY JUNIORS.

(By PAULINE COOK, '11.)

It seems almost impossible to think of the members of the present Junior class as being Freshmen but, nevertheless, it is true that they were such only three years ago. We can well remember when we first entered the high school, perhaps, just as "green" as the classes which followed us, though it is more pleasant not to think so. Yet what a marked change has taken place since then! Who would now recognize our class of splendid students as the same mere children of former years?

In 1907 our class entered high school with all the honor and respect usually accorded to the Freshmen; but somehow, I think the upper classes were especially kind hearted that year, as we were very well treated and our faults overlooked. Although not a large class in numbers, we soon showed that we were the right sort and with our able president, Glenn Seelinger, we managed to hold our own. The Freshmen and Sophomores were given a splendid reception by the other two classes and in this way we became acquainted with our own fellow students. I think we all did well in our studies—that is, as well as most Freshmen—though perhaps the Latin did seem a trifle hard. Nevertheless, we all passed and were ready for new worlds to conquer in the Sophomore year. The last social event of the school year was the Freshmen-Sophomore picnic at Wellsville, where the Freshmen and Faculty displayed their ability to play baseball and easily beat the team composed of members from the other classes.

The next fall we saw our class much smaller, having lost a number of our members, one of them being Arthur Alger, who was greatly missed by us all. George Bird was chosen class president this year and everything went along finely. The Caesar class was quite small showing that few of us cared for Latin. In a social way, we did very little, preferring rather to devote all our time and energy to our studies. The one event which I remember was the beefsteak fry at which we entertained the Seniors. At the close of school, they favored us with a hayrack ride which, needless to say, we greatly enjoyed.

Two new members joined us this year—Maide Atkinson of Montrose and Agneta Evans of Delta. Both of these girls proved to be splendid students and we were very lucky to have them with us. Dick Green left our class in this year and we realized the loss of one of our best students. Mable Rose and Ella Lessing were greatly missed from our crowd, but we still think of them as belonging to our class.

Two years have quickly come and passed and now behold the Junior class! Only twenty-one remain of that large number which entered as Freshmen. Fortunately, Pearl Smith, Hazel Simmons, Pansy VanCleve and Corbin Grady have decided that our class is "the one" and so have cast their lot with ours, and we have as jolly a crowd as ever before. George Bird was chosen class president again, and I am sure this has been the very best year of all. Surely every one has had a good time and the studies have not been difficult. We were unfortunate in losing one of our best girls, when Agneta Evans moved away, but we are grateful for having her with us even for only a year. Hazel Simmons and Howard Webster left school on account of ill health during the year. Archie Knoodle was more than welcome as a Junior student and a splendid one, too. The Junior class has made a splendid showing in all athletics—football, basketball and baseball. We need only to mention Harold Woods, John Sweeny and George Bird, though there are others who have shown splendid spirit and all deserve credit and appreciation. In track meets, the Junior boys have won the championship of the high school and have also showed up admirably in the Boulder track meet.

It is not without regret that we realize that next year will be our last and that we must try to take the place of the splendid present Senior class. We shall miss them greatly for they have surely proven to be the right sort.

Then here's to the class of 1911!

I. SOPHOMORE CLASS.

(By LUCILE PEARCE, '12.)

Tuesday morning! Oh, and such a school day! Such a fine, warm school day! The birds sang their best, the fruit hung in thick clusters on the trees, and no day during summer had been so nice, and all because it was school day. But there was something else that lay hidden in many hearts that morning; for the people to whom those hearts belong, were to enter the first year of high school. Freshmen? Yes, and there were fifty-seven of us—thirty boys and twenty-seven girls.

We all gathered that Tuesday morning in the assembly hall and all in one corner, too, and just as close to our old school chums as we could. And how we did listen to every word the Prof. said. We were going to start a new record and not whisper once during the year! We registered and then turned to our friends, Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores, just to break the ice of getting acquainted.

But the next day! We forever mixed our class rooms; forgot which lesson came next; forgot some books and stood up when the teacher rang the first bell. Well, we got over it, and the upper classmen were a healthy bunch that year; for laughing makes any one healthy.

During the year we had a number of receptions, parties, hayrack rides, fries and toasts. We were the liveliest class in the school. Something always doing. We also outnumbered the other classes in attendance, and as for class spirit—we had it!

It was during this year that many of our class left us. Paul James, Dan Rose, Stephen Honan, Len Cole and Leonard Zilhaver all became worldly men and school life, to them, was tame.

There were a number who changed their residences. Among these were Christine Hurd, Rachel Beggs, Bessie Neal, Irene McKernen, Irene Kramer, Chance Collins, Edward Borton, John Donley and Paul Collier. Cecil Brown, our class president, was struck by cupid's darts and was married to an alumnus.

But, despite their absence, we struggled on, learning the dead language and Algebra, and firmly sticking to our colors of pink and green. Our colors waved over the heads of the noble Sophomores, who always, when we had a reception or party, would stand on the outside and sing and s-i-n-g.

Of course, as we intended from the beginning, we never whispered (?), always had our lessons and were perfect in every way (?). We ended our first glorious career with a reception, together with our noble Sophomores, to the Juniors and Seniors.

A period of three months passed. We were all separated until Tuesday morning again rolled around. As before, this day was beautiful and the spirit of studying began to take hold of us. We entered the assembly hall that morning and sought out our old mates and then, feeling like Sophomores, we watched the large class of Freshmen come in and huddle in one corner. We answered their various questions about the different subjects, and then our minds wandered back to the day when we were Freshmen; to the taunts of the heartless Sophs. and then, just to get even—why, well, we just hii! to laugh at the "greenies," too. We also began to count our classmates and only to find twenty-five left. Where had Edna Burns and Edith Ramsey gone? They were with us last year. Agnes Wolf was absent, too.

The next day began our work—work which was more difficult than that before. We also realized that we had a hard struggle before us. Our parties and good times were cut down and our spare time spent with Geometry and Caesar. Our History, also, took a large amount of the used-to-be spare time.

Geneive McGlenn and Kenneth Lodge, as the old saying goes, "dropped by the wayside," and are now watching their class struggle upward, in hopes of reaching the top. Jessie Fowler found her man among the Alumni and is now making home life a joy to him.

But, courage, fellow students! We can continue our work and reach the top. Because others have failed,—we must win!

THE FRESHMAN CLASS.

THE TENDERFOOT
OUR FRESHMAN CLASS.

(By JOSEPHINE RANDOL, '13.)

On September 6, 1909, there entered the Salida High School, in a meek and reverential manner, such as becomes Freshmen, a class of fifty-five members, twenty-six boys and twenty-nine girls.

From the beginning its members have shown the ability and determination to overcome all obstacles and accomplish whatever they attempt. Noise and rudeness are unknown to these models of propriety. Whispering and note-writing are considered quite beneath their dignity. Their energy and ambition have no limits; nothing is too great, nothing too difficult for them to undertake.

One of the first things to demand the attention of this illustrious class was the election of officers. It was very hard to choose among so many capable and brainy individuals, but they finally agreed upon Herbert Exter for president, Howard Carson for vice-president and Ruth Rubin for treasurer. Later, much to their regret, the class lost their president on account of his removal to Delta, but the vice-president has filled the place in a very acceptable manner. Notwithstanding the hard work, the class has found opportunity for many good times, the recollection of which will always bring pleasant memories of their Freshman year.

Although they have not accomplished any startling results in athletics, they have shown their interest and loyalty by their presence and enthusiasm at all the games, and their future possibilities were clearly shown in their own game with the Sophomores. Of course, it would not be seemly for this illustrious class of 1913 to carry away all the honors, so they politely gave the Sophomores this basketball game. Now don't misunderstand them—it is not as though the Freshmen could not have won this game, but with the sense of dignity that is so pleasing to well-bred folks, they willingly gave the victory to the Sophomores.

On the honor roll each month have been seen more Freshmen than members of any other class; not only that, but Ruth Rubin, a member of this class, has received the highest standing in the entire high school throughout the year. She has certainly proved an honor to the high school as well as to the class.

In the Orio Debating Society, the Freshmen are well represented, showing that they are progressive and want to have a part in all good things.

To the Sophs. we will say this one thing: The average height of the class is low, the age young and the standard high.

The Sophomores are very loath to acknowledge to Freshmen's superiority and try to get them into all kinds of trouble by asking them to pass their notes and trying to get them to laugh out loud in school at their silly little jokes. In fact, they set a very poor example, which the Freshmen have learned not to follow.

Then the Juniors are exceedingly cautious about giving the Freshmen praise. Of course, they would scorn to acknowledge that they were once Freshmen. They think of nothing but the exit of the present Senior class and the occupation of its enviable position. But the grave and reverend Seniors, whom every one respects, accord the class its just deserts. Their superior wisdom discerns that which others cannot see. They give the Freshmen invaluable advice; they chaperon their social affairs; they guide them through the waves of Algebra and across the tumultuous Latin sea; they are the ones who set a worthy example which, if followed, will some day make the Freshmen capable of occupying their honorable places. The Freshmen do not say of the Senior class, as they have heard others say, that

"Lives of Seniors all remind us,

We can make our lives a pest;

And departing leave behind us

Feelings of relief and rest."

Now, to mention more in praise of the present Freshmen might spoil one of their finest characteristics—modesty, so we forbear to add much that we might.

The Orio Debating Society was established in high school during the first part of the last semester with Prof. Baker as general supervisor and critic. On two evenings a month, meetings were held in the assembly room of the high school and formal programmes were rendered, which usually consisted of papers on current events, vocal and instrumental music, readings, extemporaneous speeches, and, last but not least, the debates. Following the programmes, the regular business meetings were held, where the society was always eager to listen to the reports of the critic. Valuable, unprejudiced advice was always offered in these reports and the society was indeed greatly benefited thereby, as was shown by the general line of improvement manifested at each new meeting.

Although only about thirty high school students were enrolled as members of the organization, we are looking forward to a much larger membership for next year and also to several inter-scholastic debates. So here's to the future Orio!

Future of Our High School.

separate Physics and Chemistry laboratory will make the work along that line much easier, and a greater pleasure still, if Mr. Kenyon's kind face is present; for I think the Seniors will always remember the picture of his tall form moving up and down the tables, hands full of reagent bottles and helping out with a pleasant smile, a hopeless case here and there.

The stage with its dressing rooms will make class plays and entertainments possible, and with our large auditorium, we will not have to crowd two in a seat in order to make room for the Eighth grades when we have a little talk or a lecture, but we will have a whole seat to ourselves. Joy!

The two large rooms in the basement for manual training and domestic science we hope to use soon if not next term. Besides fitting the girls and boys for college, the school desires to give something practical, teaching them to work with their hands and not their brains alone.

The Orio Debating Society will no doubt increase the number of its members and will participate in inter-scholastic debates next term. Our athletic teams are famous throughout the State for their record of clean playing and victories, and there is no reason why we are not competent to compete equally as well in an intellectual way as we have in the past with our brawn and muscles.

The athletic prospect for the coming years is indeed bright. With our ten acres of ground we expect great things along the line of track work, football, and baseball, and the school has too good a record now, to let anything interfere with its future.

The Tenderfoot has been a financial success this term, and the pleasure that it has given to its readers and those on the staff, cannot be estimated.

The training that the staff has received is sometimes the start of a journalistic career and as the Tenderfoot is now firmly established, the outlook for its future is indeed to be looked forward to with pleasure and anticipation.

In the future, we hope to have our students pointed out with pride in higher institutions of learning and hope that our school will turn out boys and girls who will become noted men and women.

 Nov. 1, at Salida—Barnes Business College 0, Salida 0.
 Nov. 27—, at Monte Vista—Monte Vista 17, Salida 0.

After a lapse of one year, a football team has again been introduced into our high school. The material this year was extremely light and almost entirely new, but, notwithstanding this fact, they have earned for themselves a very creditable reputation, having played two very fast games with naught to naught scores. Every team that they have run up against this year has outweighed them by at least ten pounds. The success of our team has been due largely to the efforts of our coach, Dr. Morse, and also to several members of our alumni, who have put in several weeks of hard training with our boys. The 17 points that were run up against our team this year were made at Monte Vista in the first half of the game with the high school team of that town. Prof. Tanton proved a very efficient manager and Tom Richards, '10, won many honors as captain of the team. In the Monte Vista game, however, Richards was unable to take part on account of an attack of diphtheria, and Leon Lippard, '10, filled the vacancy as captain, pro tempore.

The team was composed of: Tom Richards and Leon Lippard, half-backs; Harold Woods, full-back; George Brewster, quarter-back; Tom Dobbie, Tom Smith and Corbin Grady, ends; Glenn Seelinger, Frank Berlin and Everett Lippard, tackles; John Churchill and Patrick O'Hara, guards; George Bird, center; and Joe Julien, Louis Marvin and Harry Elofson, substitutes.

The Salida basketball girls have made one of the most excellent records in the history of the S. H. S. Out of eleven games played, they have won ten and have scored in all, 228 points to their opponents' 76. The only defeat to go down on their almost spotless record was suffered in Alamosa for the reason that our star forward, Abby Perry, was ill and therefore unable to take part in the game. By defeating Aspen and Gunnison from the West, Canon City from the South, and Monte Vista and Alamosa from Central Colorado, Salida High School feels that she can rightfully claim the championship from those portions of the State and up to the present time, no one has dared to dispute this claim.

The success of this year's girls' basketball team has been due largely to the faithful and diligent work of our coach, Prof. Tanton. To Abby Perry is also due a considerable amount of praise; for she has scored almost three-fourths of the number of points made this year.

The players are: Captain Ruth Hatch; Manager Abby Perry and Francis Reilly, forwards; Mary Pickett and Florence Gilmore, guards; Rosa Freeman, Hazel Meacham, and Evelyn Foss, substitutes.

For many years basketball has been the predominating feature in the athletic history of the Salida High School. This year, we have been especially successful in both boys' and girls' basketball. Our boys' team has, as usual, captured a championship title, this time over the entire portion of Western, Central and Southern Colorado. Out of the fourteen games played, they have lost but two and have scored, in all, 374 points to their opponents' 237. Much thanks is due to Manager Berlin, who has worked so diligently in arranging the best basketball schedule ever arranged for the S. H. S. To Harold Woods is due the credit of having scored over half of the number of points made.

Salida High School feels justly proud of her boys' and girls' teams, and the teams are, on the other hand, truly proud of their own fine record. The boys who have played match games this year are: Captain Harold Woods, center; Manager Frank Berlin, George Bird, and George Brewster, guards; Leon Lippard, John Sweeny, Tom Smith, and Everett Lippard, forwards.

BASEBALL.

April, 30, at Salida—Florence 12, Salida 9.

For the first time in years, the high school has turned out a baseball team. And, although the team was a decided failure, financially, a great amount of good material was exhibited in the one and only game played this year. This game was played with the Florence High School at Marvin's park on a stormy afternoon, before a crowd of about thirty high school boys and girls and about fifty small boys, who came in over the fence and lined up on the side lines, shutting out entirely the view from the bleachers of our little third baseman. The game was lost for Salida in the first two innings, when Florence accumulated almost all of their scores. After that, Salida outplayed their opponents to such an extent that they, at one time, were playing with the score standing 9 to 9.

There has been some talk of reorganizing the team during the summer, and if such be the case, we are sure that the purple and white will come out at the top of the mast, as it has always done in the other forms of athletics. Our players are: Glen Seelinger, catcher; Harold Woods, pitcher; Frank Lee, first base; Captain Tom Richards, second base; George Brewster, third base; Tom Dobbie, short-stop; Corbin Grady, left field; Walter Woods and Tom Smith, center field; James Davis, right field; and Frank Berlin, manager.

proposition that if Kate will marry him he will return all of the money. Just as she is about to accept the proposition, John Willett rushes in, gives testimony against Amos, and gives the letters of proof to Mrs. Carroll, who locks them in a drawer (Amos watching.) Kate starts to thank John but he departs before she has had time. She and her mother leave Amos alone. He is trying to force the drawer open when Wanda enters. He leaves the house, commanding Wanda to leave the window unlocked. After all have retired, Amos appears at the window—enters—opens the drawer and secures the papers. As he is about to exit, he is caught by Shiny and exposed to the entire household. Kate takes papers from his hand and gives them to her mother.

ACT IV.

Wanda, before going back to Vassar, has persuaded her mother to give her the papers for safe keeping. When Wanda returns to school, she writes for Amos. After he arrives, she uses the papers and her wealth as a persuader, and she gains such an influence over him that she finally gets him to marry her.

John Willett comes to witness the graduating exercises at Vassar. As he arrives, he is informed by Shiny that Kate has "heart trouble" and there is no hopes for her. John finds her among the other girls and is very much surprised that she is looking so well. They are left alone and after a serious interview, the mystery as to why she had not received his letters was solved. Kate's "heart trouble" was suddenly cured, and when Amos and Wanda enter, the engagements of both couples are announced, and the curtain falls amid loud applause from the stage hands and ushers.

library, and four class rooms, each 25 x 32 feet, open off of this hall. Three of these will be used for chemical and Physics Laboratories and lecture room. The cloak rooms will be placed between these. On the second floor is the large assembly hall, 40 x 67 feet, capable of seating two hundred and fifty pupils. The rear half of the floor is inclined and in the south end is a stage, 16 x 29 feet, with dressing rooms on each side. There are also four recitation rooms on this floor, each 25 x 32 feet.

Ventilating flues will be placed in each room, and rapid circulation of air will be kept up by means of air chambers in the attic.

When completed, the building will cost $35,000.

Not only is there plenty of room inside, but there is also a large tract outside which insures a good future for the S. H. S. in the way of athletics.

JOSH.

(By JAMES DAVIS, '10.)

On our journey through high school we hear many witty sayings and see many funny things,—besides Fresmen.

NOW WOULDNT' IT BE FUNNY

It Pansy VanCleave were six feet tall?

If Clayton Dobbie were freckled?

If Arthur Nord were German?

If Frankie Carson should frown?

If Leila Bratton were engaged?

If Phyla Sage wore rats?

If Pat O'Hara were a Latin teacher?

If Waldo Hahn ever got to school on time?

If George Brewster would forget his laugh?

If Ruth Whitehurst would leave her smile at home?

If John Churchill ever graduated?

If George Bird would get a shave?

If John Sweeny would quit whispering?

Mr. Tanton (in Psychology):—"Have you ever been in a state where the emotions overcame the power to think correctly?"

John TenBroeck: "Yes, sir; Colorado."

Miss Dow (in English):—"Clara, what kind of literature did they write?"

Clara: "They wrote books."

Viola Kennison (in History): "Elizabeth died on the throne of Russia."

Frank Berlin (in glee club practice): "Miss Shomler, what do you do in a case of two men on first base?"

Alice Sangster (reading Macbeth):—"That which hath made me drunk hath made me bald."

Florence Gilmore (in History):—"Joseph was only one man." Is it possible?

Miss Dow:—"Carton was the best man."

Tom Dobbie: "At the wedding?"

Tom, your thoughts are wandering in the country.

Miss Pearsall:—"The class may take the same lesson tomorrow and Robert may have a vacation."

Bing!

A Freshman was heard to say a few days ago: "I'm so complicated I can't say anything." If that had been a Junior he would probably have said: "I'm very much exaggerated."

Ruth Whitehurst, (at Senior rehearsal, just as the villain is about to kiss her):—"Don't—stop!"

Clayton Dobbie (telling of the condition in France at the time of the Revolution):—"The poor people didn't have enough to eat even".

OUR TRACK TEAM.

SILVER MEDAL, SHOT PUT, BOULDER TRACK MEET.

During the past two years, a large amount of the hopes and aspirations of the Salida High School have rested with the track team that goes to Boulder each year, on High School Day. To say that we have been looking forward to our boys capturing first or second place in the meet against twenty-eight of the largest high schools of the State, would be stating an entirely false impression. We have only been anticipating the prospects of Salida winning one or two medals or trophies of the eventful day. Last year Harold Woods took third place in the shot put, winning one point for Salida and a large bronze medal for himself. This year a still brighter showing was manifested when Woods took second place in the shot put, which won him a silver medal and three points for the S. H. S.

Leon Lippard also did good work for Salida, when he came out first in his heat in the preliminaries and won a place for himself in the finals in the hundred yard dash. Scruby, of Longmont, established a new record when he put the shot 51 ft. 9 in.; Woods, of Salida, won second place by putting the shot 43 ft. 8 in.; and Kohe, of Aspen, fell to third place by putting it a fraction over 41 ft.

About twenty Salida people accompanied the team to Boulder and were very cordially received and entertained by the old S. H. S. alumni, who are now attending the U. of C.

The members of the team were: Captain Harold Woods, Manager Frank Berlin, Leon Lippard, Corbin Grady, Tom Richards, George Brewster, Walter Wood and Tom Smith.

Although few people realize the fact, it is true nevertheless, that exchanges are very important to a high school paper. Just imagine what our paper would be if we had never received any other papers nor had never sent any of our own out of town. If this had been the case, at the present time we would have a high school paper that we would be selfish enough to think was the best on earth. We would not know whether any other schools had energy enough to print a paper, and would naturally think they hadn't, and as a result, would feel more than ever that our particular paper could not be any better.

We are not from Missouri, but, as the saying goes, "we have to be showed." By seeing what other schools are doing not only in our own State but in all parts of the country, we are more capable of judging and keeping our paper up to the average, if not better. Of course, we do not plan to copy from exchanges, but very good ideas are often conferred from one to the other. Very often criticisms are given about our paper in various of our exchanges and some of them we are glad to accept and make our paper better thereby. Others we do not care for, but nevertheless they express some one's honest opinion and that is worth something.

Any school that is interested in athletics, likes to know what its neighbors are doing, and it is possible to know just what other schools are doing in this line by the exchanging of papers. In our own State we have been especially interested to see what other schools were doing and who would be the one to carry off honors. During basketball season all papers glowed with enthusiasm for its players, which showed that the right spirit was shown to those trying to gain victories for their high school.

A school is judged a great deal from the paper it puts out and we can say of our exchanges that we think with few exceptions, that there must be some fine schools throughout our United States. If no literary department is found in a paper we at once wonder if there are no pupils in that school capable of writing a short story, and then naturally think our school is just a little better, for in our English course we must write stories or "themes" as they are generally known. The same with other departments; so it's up to each school to put out the very best paper it can and to have it distributed around the country as much as possible so their school will be known.

How many people in the East and South do you suppose ever heard of Salida High School before this year? Very few, I think, but now at least fifty different schools east of the Rockies know of us. Many an eastern family may have decided to come west, and wanted to locate where their children could have a good education, so naturally went to the larger cities which they had heard of and found to occupy a prominent place on the map. They had never heard of Salida, so must stay down lower and nearly prostrate with heat in the summer and freeze in winter, and then decide that Colorado wasn't a very good place to live after all, and then return to the East.

What a difference it will make now they have heard of Salida, located in one of the most beautiful valleys of the Arkansas and where the climate is ideal. The mountains that enclose the valley give a most effective back-

The editor has received a letter from one of our most enthusiastic alumni, Mrs. J. A. Fraser, nee Inez Chinn, '97, who is now living in Old Glory, Ariz. Part of the letter will be published here:

"When we were in high school the history of the class differed very slightly from the history of the whole school. The spirit of class unity was not strong, one reason, perhaps, being that at that time there were no contests between classes, in field or gymnastic sports, as now. What rivalry there was, tended to increase the sense of individual excellence than to differentiate between the groups. Most of us at some time entered the Declamatory Contest, held yearly, for the Davidson Medal, two of our class, Ester Elefson and Nettie Bly, winning the prize, while the rest of us just kept on trying.

"In our last year at school, we organized and held meetings, a few for study, a few for sociability's sake, and a few to discuss Commencement.

"The spring of '97 found only six ready and willing to participate in the exercises and win their diplomas. Several had moved away, two had died, and many, especially boys, had just dropped out upon some pretext or other. Those who graduated were: Maude Davis, now married and living, I think, in or near Howard, Colorado. —I have not learned her married name; Laure Champe, now Mrs. Runyon, whose home, when last I knew of it, was in Goldfield, Nevada; Ava Barnes, whose address is Mrs. Edgar L. Thompson, 802 J street, Grants Pass, Oregon; Nettie Bly, who in 1903 married Mr. H. D. Donnell of Oakland, California; Ester Elefson, now Mrs. J. C. Kramer of Hotchkiss Colo., and myself.

"Married, all of us, our lives present little of historic value to any but our own associates; and this is as it should be.

"True happiness does not scintillate for the admiration of the world, but radiates steady warmth and light for an individual, a home, and a small, compact circle of friends."

Miss Edith Dobson, '93, is anticipating a visit to Salida this summer. Every one who knew her will be very glad to see her again.

Miss Ada Kesner, '07, who has been attending the girls' college at Mount Holyoke, is expected home in June.

Miss Anice White, '09, who has been attending business college in Indianapolis, will return home in June.

George Brown, '08, has been employed by the Government in taking the census for 1910.

Miss Matie Higgs, '04, who has been teaching at Centerville for some time, was united in marriage to Mr. Earle Ehrhart on April 30. This was a great surprise to every one. We congratulate them in their happiness and wish them success in the future.

A letter was received from Miss Ilah Harris, '05, who is now attending University of Colorado. She tells us that herself and Earl Clem are the only members of the class of '05 that have pulled their way through college. They will both graduate in June, Miss Harris from the Liberal Art department and Mr. Clem from the Engineering department.

Harry Ruefly, '00, is again in Salida, holding a position as stenographer with the D. & R. G.

THE ALUMNI OF SALIDA HIGH SCHOOL

Editor's Note:—

[We give below a list of our high school alumni. This list has been prepared at considerable effort on the part of the superintendent of schools and the alumni editor, and while not complete, is as nearly so as we are able to make it at this time. Information here found to be lacking will be gratefully received, particularly concerning the members of the earlier classes. It is our desire to make this roster complete, and to keep informed concerning our alumni.]

ground with their green foothills and snow-capped peaks, even in summer, who could care for a more beautiful sight than one of our sunsets in spring or summer, an ocean sunset is not more beautiful than ours, when the sun is going down behind the Collegian range, to come up again in the morning and reflect all its beauty from one range to another and then over all the peaceful valley below.

There is not a better school in the state, for its size, and next year the high school will occupy a new thirty-five, thousand dollar building, which will well compare with any in the state. The instructors are the very best so that any one in school may learn if they wish. All these facts have been conveyed through The Tenderfoot to many people who never even knew we existed before.

We found that many schools have debating societies, and literary clubs, which are very beneficial to the pupils. Of course we do not care to be behind any other school, so this year we started the Orio Debating Society. There is not as large a number belonging this year but next year we hope to double the number and then we can compete with other schools in debates as well as in athletics.

The business men have supported our paper and one reason they were so willing to give support was because of our exchange department. They knew that if we sent our paper to all parts of the country it would be a good advertisement. An example of the good this has done was shown just a few days ago. An agent from the East came into our school and said, "Oh, this is where The Tenderfoot is published." This gentleman knew just where to stop while in town, for he had observed the ads and knew that a place advertised in a high school paper was a good one.

As this is the last time I will have the privilege of being connected with the paper, I wish to thank all the exchange editors on our list, for the time and work they have put on our paper and for the comments both good and bad which they have made. The work of looking over other papers has certainly been much enjoyed, even if it has taken a great deal of time, and is a task which will be missed very much in months to come. I wish each one of you success and prosperity for the future and hope that you may all be found on the exchange list of The Tenderfoot for years to come.

Her Face.

(By EVERETT LIPPARD, '10.)

Drawing by Neila Fleming, '13.

Somehow or other, when the evening comes,
 Borne on the fragrant breezes from afar,
 I like to let my mind freely avert
 To faces that coil up from my cigar:
 Sweet, childish faces that once haunted Youth,
 Unfurl in winding columns of blue smoke,
 And ling'ring there before my rapturous gaze,
 They smile as if they had but shortly spoke.

A saintly face, with eyes that trust and hope,
 Smiles o'er me in a kind and gentle way;
 Ah! I would hazard all that I have stored,
 Could I but be with her another day!
 Then, ere the mystic haze dimly recedes,
 HER face appears amid the incense deep
 To vanquish all my pain and worldly cares,
 And lull me off, enchantingly, to sleep.
